College Boss Loses Allies

SAN FRANCISCO (Reuters) — Faculty support appears to be slipping rapidly away from Acting President S. I. Hayakawa, who brought a "hard-line" administration to troubled San Francisco State College.

The Academic Senate, representing the 1,300 faculty members, Friday night condemned Hayakawa's "policy of confrontation"—using police on campus against militant student strikers—and said a permanent president should be selected quickly.

Concessions by the Vancouver-born acting president offered student strikers Friday were based on a program of negotiation suggested by the Academic Senate.

The concessions were creation of a black studies program and establishment of a director of financial aid to help minority groups among the students.

About 3,500 persons—including black community leaders, churchmen and other off-campus sympathizers—loudly booed the concessions when they were announced.

The Academic Senate, by a vote of 25 to 5, passed a resolution saying: "The policy of confrontation currently pursued on this campus... can only lead to further violence with inevitable fatalities."

URGES QUICK ACTION
The resolution urged expedition of "the process which will lead to the choosing of a permanent president acceptable to the academic community."

In announcing the concessions, Hayakawa rejected a demand by the Black Students' Union that Negroes be admitted to the 18,000-student college regardless of qualifications starting next academic year.

The strikers demanded amnesty for all involved in the disturbances this week and reinstatement of Black Panther George Murray, whose suspension as a part-time instructor led to the strike.

But Hayakawa promised only "due process" in dealing with these cases.

Hayakawa announced creation of a full-scale black studies department with classes starting in February and studies leading to degrees.

The department would be headed by Nathan Hare, a controversial Negro instructor.

He also promised to admit next spring 128 additional minority students who lack academic requirements and to create a task force to "explore policies and procedures for ethnic studies."

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — About 150 chanting demonstrators pushed passed two guards and smashed a glass door panel to enter a room where the state university system's board of regents were meeting Friday.

The demonstrators, demanding reinstatement of 89 Negro students suspended from Oshkosh State University, interrupted the meeting for 20 minutes.

ST. LOUIS (AP) — All but a handful of white protesters at Washington University ended their sit-in early today after the faculty approved virtually all student demands.

The faculty of arts and sciences yielded to the white students' principal demand that the Reserve Officers Training Corps be eliminated.

FIRST VOTER CHECKS BALLOT BOX

Ald E. R. Winter, shown standing, with city comptroller and returning officer D. B. Herbert, is the first voter to cast his ballot in 1968 municipal elections. As such, he had to inspect the ballot boxes. At noon today, 872 of the 8,559 eligible voters had gone to the polls compared with 807 at the same time a year ago. Four hundred and eighty-one of them came between 10 a.m. and 11 a.m. The aldermanic contest is a five-way fight between incumbents Ald. D. A. Chapman and Ald. Thomas Angus, and newcomers Allan Moss, Dick Stewart and M. J.

Peters, for three posts on city council. Three people, including incumbent Dr. C. E. Henderson, Stanley Steinhilber and Mrs. Frank McNeil are contesting two positions on the board of trustees, school district 23 (Kelowna), one vacated by Mrs. E. R. Pelly who was rendered ineligible this year.—(Courier Photo)

Work-To-Rule Threat Presented Air Canada

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Air Line Employees Association Friday threatened to begin a work-to-rule plan Monday unless Air Canada presents a "reasonable" contract during the weekend.

John Hayes, president of the 2,200-member association of passenger agents, communications personnel and switchboard operators in 29 Air Canada depots, said there was no sign of a settlement in mediation hearings which opened Friday.

An effort to prevent the slowdown began with the convening of a conciliation board under the chairmanship of Thomas C. O'Connor, a Toronto labor-relations consultant.

Mr. Hayes said after the first three-hour meeting that the association and management were not closer to agreement than they were before the meeting began. He said the stumbling block was getting "this company to bargain."

"The company seems to think that we're not worth any more money so we're going to institute a work perfection program, making sure that we follow all the rules to the letter," Mr. Hayes said.

The last contract between the association and Air Canada expired July 31. Bargaining began in June and conciliation was applied for July 19 by the union. At issue are wages, working conditions, duration of the new contract and employee-transfer clauses.

Earlier this week, Mr. Hayes said the association wants an immediate but undisclosed adjustment, plus salary increases ranging from 19 to 35 per cent in a one-year contract.

Air Canada has offered a 15 per cent increase over two years. Present salaries are $325 to $550 monthly for passenger agents and $260 to $382 monthly for switchboard operators.

Last week, federal Labor Minister Bryce Mackasey ordered the conciliation board to reconvene instead of accepting the board's original report.

Mr. Hayes said Friday: "We should have been in a position to take strike action, now but the minister prevented that by failing to release the conciliation report. Therefore, we have substituted a different approach in lieu of the right to strike."

Strike action can be taken seven days after a conciliation report is tabled.

Moves By NATO 'Full Of Danger' Claims Moscow

MOSCOW (CP) — The Soviet newspaper Pravda says that a new air watch by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in the Mediterranean is a "typical provocation, fraught with danger."

Vladimir Yermakov, writing in the Communist party newspaper, says the air watch is a "violation of the norms of international law which provides for freedom of navigation in open seas in peacetime."

He says that the Naples-based service of NATO "threatens the security of the Mediterranean peoples."

The accusation comes after Pravda attacked the United States for sending two destroyers from the Mediterranean into the Black Sea for a five-day cruise beginning today.

A spokesman of the U.S. Navy European headquarters said: "U.S. destroyers have in the past visited the Black Sea and we would expect this practice to continue."

He termed the venture "a routine voyage."

Since the 1967 Middle East War the Soviet Union has increased the number of its ships in the Mediterranean. It has proclaimed itself a Mediterranean power and said that the U.S. 6th Fleet threatens peace in the area.

PLANS TROOP EXERCISE

In addition to plans to send the two destroyers into the Black Sea, the U.S. next month will stage a major military exercise in West Germany only 20 miles from the Czechoslovak border in a new show of NATO strength.

The U.S. said the military exercise, using 12,000 troops, 3,500 airmen and 98 F-4 Phantom fighter-bombers, would be staged near Grafenwoehr, in Bavaria.

U.S. Defence Secretary Clark M. Clifford told NATO ministers in Brussels in November the exercise is being brought forward from a date later in 1968 to step up "the readiness of NATO."

The forces involved were withdrawn to the U.S. from West Germany in the summer. Observers are inclined to treat the exercise as something of a "muscle-flexing" on the part of NATO following the Aug. 20 Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia.

U.S. administration sources refused to attach any motives to the Black Sea manoeuvres.

But observers speculated the U.S. might be engaging in a form of flag-waving support for the Romanians, who have been at odds with Russia in the past, and more recently over the invasion of Czechoslovakia.

Quiet, Church-Going Rancher Named Alberta Sacred Chief

EDMONTON (CP) — A soft-spoken, church-going southern Alberta rancher was elected leader of the province's ruling Social Credit party Friday night after a campaign that promised to continue premier E. C. Manning's policies with a new look.

Municipal Affairs Minister Harry Strom, 54, polled 915 votes on the second ballot compared to 606 for Highways Minister Gordon Taylor and 144 for backbencher Walter Buck.

Mr. Strom missed a first-ballot victory by only 23 votes. Ray Reiersen, minister of labor and education who ran third on the first ballot, threw his support to Mr. Taylor on the second one.

Attorney-General Edgar Gerhart, low man on the first ballot, was dropped from the contest. He put on a Strom button but declined to tell his followers how to vote.

PROMISED NEW APPROACH
In his acceptance speech, Mr. Strom promised "a vigorous new approach to government, a team approach, a problem-solving approach."

"We now must take this opportunity of a new interest in politics to revitalize our party. "There is still a great deal to be done. There are many individuals who are not sharing in the development of our province."

He committed his government to expand social, economic and political opportunities.

Like Mr. Manning, Mr. Strom has pictured government's role as one of encouraging individual opportunity and responsibility.

Mr. Manning said after the balloting he "couldn't be more happy" with the outcome. He said at the outset of the race he would endorse no candidate but his son, Preston, 26, wore a Strom button Thursday.

A rancher and farmer from Burdett, Alta., Mr. Strom was first elected to the legislature in 1955. He spent six years as minister of agriculture before his promotion to the municipal affairs portfolio last July.

He said he will give up that post now but kept silent on possible cabinet appointments except to say that the cabinet ministers who opposed him have indicated they "would be happy" to serve under him.

It's All A Question Of Seats That Delays Paris Peace Talks

PARIS (AP) — United States and North Vietnamese negotiators have agreed on seven procedural issues for four-way peace talks, but they still can't agree on who will sit where.

U.S. officials said the seven points agreed on Friday by Cyrus Vance, No. 2 man in the U.S. delegation, and his North Vietnamese counterpart, Ha Van Lau, are:

—Each group will have a speaker

—They will meet in the same room previously used for U.S.-North Vietnamese talks at the Majestic Hotel

—The U.S.-South Vietnamese and Communist sides each may bring 10-12 persons

—Business can be conducted in English, Vietnamese and French

—Tape recorders will be admitted

—Reporters will not be admitted

EACH SCORED POINTS

Vance and Lau each scored points in these procedural agreements, which left some leeway for individual definition.

CYRUS VANCE ... a round table?

The Americans see the speaker arrangement as two spokesmen on each of two sides, one each for Washington, Saigon, Hanoi and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front.

They see the conference make-up as two delegations of 10 to 12 members each, while Hanoi views it as four delegations of five to six persons each.

From the U.S. standpoint, Vance was the agreement to keep reporters out of the first rule-making meeting. The North Vietnamese said they wanted the press admitted, but the Americans felt the Communists will be more inclined to reach a reasonable compromise without the opportunity to make public statements.

The shape of the conference table, although a seemingly trivial issue, is one which the rivals feel could be translated into a bargaining advantage later on. Consequently there has been no breakthrough on this point.

B.C. Labor Group Has Offer On Controversial Bill 33

VANCOUVER (CP) — The British Columbia Federation of Labor Friday offered to meet the provincial government to negotiate a new deal on Bill 33, the province's controversial labor legislation that went into full effect this week.

The federation outlined its terms for avoiding a major battle over the bill, which sets guidelines for a modified form of compulsory arbitration, in a statement issued by the labor body's executive council.

It said its affiliated unions are prepared to "give co-operation to the new legislation" if the government will eliminate sections that force unions to appear before the three-member mediation commission.

The federation also asked for guarantees that the government will appoint mediation officers "who have the confidence and respect of both labor and management."

The resignation of commissioner D. R. Blair earlier in the week gives the government a perfect opportunity to restructure Bill 33, said the 136,000-member federation.

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson had no immediate comment on the federation statement and has yet to appoint a successor to Mr. Blair, who resigned to return to private industry.

TIME-LIMIT CLAUSE

Stanfield Labels Grit Move: Truly Horrendous Proposal

OTTAWA (CP) — The parliamentary opposition has loudly rejected a government move to assert virtually complete control over allocating time for passage of legislation through the Commons.

Conservative Leader Stanfield labelled it "a truly horrendous proposal" shortly after it was put forward Friday. The New Democratic Party rules expert, Stanley Knowles (Winnipeg North Centre), said it would make the government House leader, Donald MacDonald, "a dictator over Parliament."

The stiff opposition stand on the provision, part of a streamlining rules package, promised an extended Commons fight.

Mr. MacDonald, responsible for arranging Commons business, hoped for a "responsible" opposition attitude on the proposals.

He said debate opens Tuesday on the rules revision and that they stand as a single package. He promised the debate will be carried through to a finish.

Both the Conservatives and NDP promised to fight the time-allocation proposal.

"It is our responsibility to fight this proposal and we accept this responsibility," Mr. Stanfield said. Mr. Knowles promised a fight to isolate time-allocation and refer it to committee for reconsideration.

Hong Kong Flu Still Spreads

Absences from schools and jobs in several areas of the United States are reported running higher than usual this winter because of a spreading outbreak of Hong Kong flu.

An Associated Press survey showed that although the disease has not yet hit its peak in many places, some firms and schools report absenteeism running as high as 30 per cent.

Opposition Went Fishing

OTTAWA (CP) — The Opposition went fishing in the Commons Friday with most lines baited to hook federal aid for the failing Newfoundland fishing industry.

Frank Moores (PC-Bonaville-Trinity-Conception) put it this way: "Make no mistake about it, the death of this industry is sure if the government, willfully and callously, continues to withhold the life-giving measures necessary."

Fisheries Minister Jack Davis, a Vancouver economist new to the fisheries portfolio, was piloting his department's $75,000,000 1968-69 revised estimates through the House. He has said repeatedly there is no money in his current budget for any new programs such as those apparently being sought by the Newfoundlanders.

HOW SHORT IS TOO SHORT?

Mini-Skirt Skirmish Rages

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The inter-office memo has become the principal weapon in a skirt skirmish raging in Michigan's capital building.

It started when one disappearing committee clerk circulated a memo among her fellow female legislative employees which said:

"How short is too short?" "The right length is dictated by your size, age and intelligence. It is measured by good taste, the proper place and occasion. Honestly, now, are your legs and knees so truly fetching that they must be exposed to everyone, at all times, anywhere?"

The memo added:

"Your skirt is too short if: When you sit there is nothing to tug down... turning around in your chair pulls it thigh-high... someone else has to do your filing for you."

The other side was soon heard from. A less-disapproving secretary parodied the first memo with a memo of her own.

"The right length," she asserted, "is dictated by your nationality, religion and the shape of your head."

She added: "Your skirt is too long if: When sitting you look as though you're still standing

... when turning in your chair it gets wound up in the awivel."

A male then jumped into the fray with a memo inquiring:

"Honestly now, is your face so truly fetching that it must be the only thing exposed to everyone, at all times, anywhere?"

In response to male meddling in this clearly feminine debate, another secretary switched the discussion to beads.

"How long," her memo inquired, "is too long?" "The right length of beard," she said, "is dictated by your age, intelligence, and what your face looks like when clean shaven."

"It is measured by good taste, the color of your hair, and what time your five o'clock shadow appears."

"Honestly now, is your face so truly fetching that it must be exposed to no one, at no time, nowhere?"

The memo added: "Your beard is too long if: Little children cry with fear when they look at you... you use a hairdryer to dry your face... pigeons seek you out during nesting season."

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — West German atomic energy expert Herbert Patzelt, a European Common Market employee, has failed to return from a vacation in East Germany. Common Market sources in Belgium said today. The sources said Patzelt, 36, who left with his wife and children, did not have access to atomic secrets. He is an employee of a Luxembourg section of the Common Market commission which deals with distribution of information for the atomic energy community, Euratom.

Teacher Charged

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (CP) — School teacher Ernest Conrad Solld was being charged with failing to exercise due care and attention in discharging a firearm following the Oct. 16 hunting death of a companion, police said Friday.

The charge follows an inquest into the death by a coroner's jury, which said David Quiller Rowett, 27, of Prince George died accidentally. No blame was attached to anyone.

In handing down its verdict Thursday, the jury made no recommendations. The incident occurred at Salmon River, 30 miles north of here. Witnesses testified that Mr. Rowett was wearing dark brown clothing the moon shining expedition that blended with his surroundings.

The Canadian Press reported erroneously Friday that Mr. Solld testified before the jury he fired the fatal shot, mistaking Mr. Rowett for a moose.

Children Enter Campaign For School Referendum

About 74,000 elementary and secondary school children in Vancouver are engaged in a major campaign to gain voter approval for a $15,000,000 school board capital budget referendum. All 67 elementary and 17 secondary schools, as well as Vancouver City College, are participating in the drive to get out the voters for the Dec. 11 elections. The school board feels student participation may be the best counter to growing public distaste for revolutionary university students and militant teachers. Board chairman Arthur Johnson said Thursday the trustees are worried that the public's reaction may torpedo the referendum.

Santa Claus may have to discontinue his nightly trips around Spokane, He, his helper and his sleigh can't take the physical abuse much longer. That was the report Friday from city firemen who, at their own expense and on their own time, constructed a float in which Santa rides each night. Youthful vandals armed with snowballs, pine cones and rocks have pelted the float on five of the seven nights Santa has made the rounds, according to Fire Dispatcher Gary Schmidt, who usually drives the float. "About $40 worth of damage has been done each night," he said. "We can't afford to keep it up much longer."

Stephen Nohia, 43, British Columbia's first kidney transplant recipient, is going home today, a Vancouver General Hospital spokesman said Friday. Mr. Nohia, a kitchen worker, said he will have to return to the hospital for checkups every two days and will have to stay home for about six months before returning to a fulltime job. He received the kidney of a 21-year-old woman in October.

Alfred Burnell Higgs, 70, and his wife Constance died after a car-truck collision north of Victoria. The couple had to be pried from the wreckage of their car.

H. H. Stevens, a Conservative cabinet minister in the 1930s, who celebrates his 90th birthday Sunday, completed his annual walk around Stanley Park in Vancouver Friday. It took him two hours and 25 minutes to complete the 6½-mile walk.

A spokesman for the immigration department in Halifax said Friday 20-year-old George Sams, Jr., of Detroit and Mobile, Ala., will be released on $200 bond until a hearing Dec. 18 decides whether or not he will be deported. Sams, a member of the Black Panther movement, was turned over to immigration authorities in court here Friday after he had been handed a $50 fine or 30 days in jail after being convicted of unlawful possession of an offensive weapon.

In Newcastle, England, one of two girls accused of murdering children for pleasure killed a three-year-old boy and then warned she would kill again, a court was told here Friday. Norma Joyce Bell, 13, charged with two murders, throttled the boy, hanged his head on a piece of wood and said, "This is the first and it won't be the last," according to evidence quoted by prosecutor Rudolph Lyons. Testimony at the trial of Norma and 11-year-old Mary Flora Bell—unrelated, but next-door neighbors—was so gruesome that the judge asked five women in the jury if they felt able to continue. They gave no answer, and the case continued.

Enoch Powell, whose position on immigration has caused embarrassment to his Conservative party, has moved even further away from the party leadership by suggesting that Britain accept breakaway Rhodesia as an independent country. The opposition member of Parliament told party members in Wolverhampton Friday night that if Rhodesia wants to become a republic, the quicker it does so the better.

Saigon Okays Paris Envoys

SAIGON (Reuters) — The South Vietnamese legislature in a special joint session of the House of Representatives and Senate—approved today Saigon participation in expanded Paris peace talks.

Approval came just 80 minutes before the delegation was scheduled to leave for Paris, and after four days of delay over what was generally regarded as a rubber-stamp formality.

The joint session of the Senate and House earlier spent three days disagreeing on the constitutional details of approving participation in the Paris talks.

And in a final, special joint session today, legislators came up with a possible further delay by asking to question the delegates.

But approval was granted when the legislators decided to ask instead for permission to question the delegates at a later date—which would not delay the departure for Paris, but could bring some of them home periodically to face legislators wanting to know what was being said in the peace talks.

Informed sources said the vote for approval in the joint session—held behind closed doors—was 80 to 21.

Doukhobors Petition For Leaders' Return

AGASSIZ, B.C. (CP)—About 40 students from a Doukhobor settlement have been removed from schools by parents demanding an answer to a petition seeking permission for their leader to return to Canada.

A Doukhobor spokesman said Friday the action was taken because they have had no answer from Ottawa on the petition, signed by 625 Sons of Freedom Doukhobors and submitted six Sorokin, 66, has lived in Uruguay months ago.

Their spiritual leader, Stefan since 1952. He left Canada for the last time in 1961, saying he would return later that year. He has not been back since.

When he left, Freedomite Doukhobors protested that he was being forced to leave Canada. At the time, the immigration department said that his visitor's permit had just been renewed for four months.

The boycott of schools in this community 40 miles east of Vancouver, and at nearby Harrison Hot Springs, started last week. The children remained out of school this week, the spokesman said.

FIRST SIGN
It's the first outward sign of unrest for several years among the Doukhobors, a Russian-speaking religious sect notorious in Canada for bombings and nude protests against governments in past year.

More than 200 of them live in a shacktown along the road to Agassiz Mountain Prison, where scores of convicted Freedomite terrorists were sent in 1962. A handful remain in the prison.

The settlement is considered to contain the hard core of older Freedomites, who trekked here in 1933 after burning their village in the Kootenay area of eastern B.C. to protest the jailings.

The Agassiz school board had no comment other than saying that missing three days of School last week is not considered an offence because those days were religious holidays for the Freedomites.

In addition, Friday was a general school holiday proclaimed by Governor-General Michener in a visit to B.C. which ended Wednesday. However, other days this week were normal school days.

ORDERED RETURN
Ironically, Sorokin himself ordered his followers in 1960 to return their children to school after parents removed them to protest their charge that Sorokin was being forced to leave Canada.

Sorokin, although interrupted briefly by 14 Freedomite women stripping in their famed form of protest, was obeyed. He had threatened to leave and never return if the children stayed out of school.

Earlier this year, the Agassiz settlement sent the petition for his return to Ottawa and to Magistrate William Evans of Nelson, B.C., a popular figure among B.C.'s Doukhobors.

In 1959, he ordered 77 Doukhobor children released from a government dormitory school, set up in 1953, after Doukhobors agreed to send their children to public schools.

They had refused earlier, contending Canadian education led to war and killing.

MANY ASSIMILATED
In 1961, there were about 5,000 Orthodox Doukhobors in B.C. and about 2,000 militant Sons of Freedom Doukhobors. Many of the latter have become assimilated into non-Doukhobor society since then.

Violence by the Sons of Freedom in B.C. lasted more than 40 years and encompassed more than 700 acts of violence, including bombings of trains, homes and bridges. At least 11 persons were killed.

STANFIELD RAPS LIBERALS

He said he could provisionally accept the rest of the package, advanced by an all-party procedure committee established Sept. 24. A government majority on the committee made the result a government program. Opposition parties on the committee dissented to parts of it, including the time-limit clause.

Under it, an all-party committee would meet to decide on time allocation. In the event of disagreement, the government House leader would have the right to lay down the law subject to a parliamentary vote.

With its House majority, a government victory is automatic.

Under present rules, the government would have to resort to the rarely-used closure rule to end a legislative debate.

Mr. Knowles said it would be "an act of stupidity" for the Liberal government to resort to closure to force a vote on the time-allocation issue. He suggested closure has its place, but not on such a fundamental time clause as the changing of the rules of the game.

Apart from elimination of some outdated procedures, the rules package would largely turn over the rest of the job of examining departmental spending estimates to House committees.

The opposition would have the option of reviving objections in the House.

ABANDON A STAGE
The resolution stage preceding money bills would be abandoned in a time-saving move.

Most bills would be shunted from the House to committee for detailed examination. And the whole second-reading process—when the most extensive House study is currently made—would be downgraded.

Second reading now amounts to approval in principle. This emphasis would be shifted to the third and final reading.

Instead of facing the possibility of year-round sittings as it has in the past, the procedures committee proposed a yearly session extending from September or October to the following July 1 when the summer break would begin.

THEY SELL UNICEF CARDS

No wonder UNICEF card sales are brisk this year in the Valley, with eager sales personnel like these Rutland secondary students. The idea of selling UNICEF cards originated with Julie Feldberg, as an outgrowth of the current campaign to discourage smoking among young people. Julie decided that instead of spending money for cigarettes, teen-agers could better spend their time and energy to help others. Her classmates approved and with the assistance of their English teacher, obtained supplies from Mrs. Tom Robinson, local chairman of UNICEF Christmas cards sales. Stu-

RCMP Are 'Not Kidding' City Motorists Find Out

At least 15 Kelowna motorists discovered Friday that RCMP are not kidding in their crackdown on drinking drivers. A mobile patrol of Mounties began Friday what has come to be known as the "sniff patrol," to try and keep to a minimum traffic accidents during the holiday season. The patrol will continue at least until Christmas, and probably into the new year.

The RCMP road blocks in four locations throughout the city Friday and overnight stopped a total of 311 vehicles for checks. Drivers were stopped on the Okanagan Bridge, on Lakeshore Road, on Glenmore Street and on Richter Street. When the day's tally was taken, a total of 15 motorists had been charged, warned or had their licences suspended. This is nearly five per cent of the motorists stopped.

The police suspended for 24 hours the licences of three drivers when they were found to be borderline impaired drivers. No one was charged with impaired driving, however.

Three minors—two of them juveniles—were charged with possession of liquor, and one man will face prosecution for supplying liquor to minors.

One motorist was caught driving while under suspension, and one for driving without a licence.

There was one charge of following another vehicle too closely, and two were given traffic notices for driving improperly equipped vehicles.

The charge for following too closely resulted from a collision. One driver failed to notice the roadblock and collided with the vehicle in front of him.

The three-man patrol will be highly mobile, showing up at any location in the city, day or night, says Const. Dave McLay.

Hopes For Cancer Treatment Expressed By Kelowna Doctor

Dr. Peter Huitema, speaking at the annual meeting of the Kelowna branch of the Canadian Cancer Society this week, gave new hope to cancer patients.

Dr. Huitema, president of the Kelowna branch of the Canadian Medical Association, is convinced that chemo-therapy along with radiation treatments will replace the radical surgery processes necessary at this time.

Speaking on the great potential of chemo-therapy, Dr. Huitema brought the wide knowledge he has gained in his experience as surgeon in the treatment of cancer in its many forms. Because of this knowledge, he was able to give his audience an understanding of a most complex subject. The doctor reduced the vast store of knowledge gained through so many years of endeavor by the medical profession to an understandable view of the problems.

Dr. Huitema's address was a message of hope and encouragement to the Kelowna group, on hearing that perhaps mankind is nearing a breakthrough in cancer treatment similar to that achieved in the virtual elimination of poliomyelitis.

The dinner meeting at Capri included a business session and election of officers. Annual reports were received and approved and few changes were made in the executive. Mrs. J. Bruce Smith will continue as president and Mrs. J. E. Hampson, was elected honorary president. Mrs. Michael Reid was appointed vice-president and new directors are: Mrs. Peter Huitema and Dr. John Christie. Mrs. Huitema is chief medical nurse at the Kelowna General Hospital and Dr. Christie, a gynecologist, recently moved here from the Kootenay.

In the presidential report, Mrs. Smith said the Kelowna area is the third largest contributor of funds to the cancer campaign, exceeded only by the two larger cities, Vancouver and Victoria.

Bob McKee, assistant to Les Kerry, in next year's direction of the campaign fund, told the group the efficient use of all money donated ensures it is applied almost completely to research, treatment and education. He said this is possible only through the generous donation of time, effort and financial support by unpaid volunteers.

Record Sales This Year For Popular UNICEF Cards

Two groups of high school students in the Valley are participating this year in the sale of popular UNICEF greeting cards and calendars.

At Rutland secondary school the idea originated with student Julie Feldberg, as an outgrowth of the current campaign to discourage smoking among young people. Julie reasoned that instead of spending money for cigarettes, teen-agers could better spend their time and energy to help others. With the cooperation of her teacher, Ken Sessford, the idea grew. The grade 11 English class is now selling the cards throughout the school and to their parents and neighbors.

At Immaculata high in Kelowna, students are concentrating on the sale of a traditional nativity scene, to emphasize the religious meaning of Christmas. This card is a reproduction of a 15th century French painting and was made available to UNICEF through the courtesy of the Pieterpoint Morgan library.

UNICEF greeting cards are enjoying record sales this year in Kelowna and district. Volunteers will continue through Dec. 13 to sell cards at the Royal Bank, said Mrs. Tom Robinson, general chairman of the local committee.

Cards are offered in 14 different designs and although demand has been heavy, there is still a complete selection, she said.

UNICEF projects are co-operative ventures. Interested governments must first request UNICEF assistance. For each dollar from the UNICEF fund, these governments must provide the equivalent of $2.50 on approved projects. This assistance is given on the basis of need, regardless of political beliefs, race or creed.

Proceeds from the sale of one box of greeting cards will provide antibiotics to cure five children of trachoma.

Ten boxes will provide enough small fish to stock three village fish ponds for low cost production of protein foods. Thirty boxes will give the same amount of fish to a primary school teacher and 50 boxes will provide sulfone tablets to treat 33 leprosy cases for three years.

A group of Kelowna oldtimers and some of the younger types stood along Bernard Avenue this week watching the fall of a building which someone said had been built 40 years ago. The building was the Belvedere apartments which was being torn down to make way for a new development. The people stood by and watched as two dozers tried in vain at first to knock the structure to the ground. Some bystanders had their own solutions to demolishing the building and pushing the last portion to the ground. But in spite of their advice most of the building finally fell. There were no tears only a few remarks among some of the watchers to whom the building had been a landmark for so long.

Rogers Pass Has New Snow

The department of highways advised motorists to use winter tires and carry chains in the Rogers and Allison Pass roads.

Four inches of new snow fell in the Rogers Pass, from Revelstoke to Golden. Roads were plowed and sanded.

A "compact snow" road from Hope to Princeton was plowed and sanded, and from Princeton to Penticton, the road was mostly bare with some slippery sections sanded.

Light snow was reported from Hope to Cache Creek in the Fraser Canyon, with slippery sections sanded.

One to two inches of light snow was reported from Cache Creek to Revelstoke, with plowing and sanding completed.

Highway 97 was bare and dry to Vernon, with two inches of new snow reported north of Vernon. The road was plowed and sanded.

The Kelowna-Beaverdell road was bare at lower levels and compact snow and ice was reported at upper levels.

Kelowna Youth Jailed, Fined After Wild Chase

A wild police chase through Kelowna Friday resulted in a jail sentence for Ernest Stinchcombe, Kelowna, in magistrate's court today.

The 20-year-old was sentenced to 30 days in jail plus a $250 fine or three months in jail in default. He was suspended from driving in Canada for two years by Magistrate D. M. White.

RCMP told the court the chase started on the Okanagan Bridge at 3:10 p.m. Friday when they were warned to watch for the car. The vehicle drove erratically across the bridge, almost striking an ambulance. Turning down Abbott Street, the car careened wildly as police gave chase at speeds up to 50 mph. After nearly striking a boy on a bicycle and running across several lawns, the car struck a small tree. The driver jumped out and ran, but was caught by police.

Prime Purpose Of 4H Is Different

Head, Heart, Hands and Health—these are the subject matter of the 4-H Club in Kelowna, as well as across Canada. The organization involves 80,000 Canadians between the ages of 10 and 21 in educational programs in homemaking, farming and community activities.

In Kelowna, 4-H activities include a beef club, a garden club and a home arts club. Bill Bulman, leader of the 4-H Beef Club, claims the movement has changed. "The prime purpose of 4-H is quite different today than it was 15 years ago," he said. "The child is the most important thing today, before it used to be the produce was the main element."

In the beef club, about 18 members began in April by investing more than $200 each to buy and raise calves. The animals are brought to market, usually from Interior ranches. While the calves are being fed and groomed into 1,000 pound steers, the members meet about once a month, but adjourn in July, August and December. The young horticulturalists are trained in cattle showing, judging, and the care and feeding of their animals. Parliamentary procedure at meetings, public speaking and record keeping round out the training program.

In November, the long-awaited day arrives: the Provincial Winter Fair in Kamloops. 4-H members from around the province bring their well-groomed steers to competition—and stiff competition it is!

Kelowna has come out on top at the fair for several years in a row, with Gordon Kirschner taking honors at the latest exhibition and contest. In 1967, the Kelowna beef raisers walked away with six awards at Kamloops.

When spring rolls around again, the beef raisers head for a rally in Armstrong which draws 4-H members from Kelowna to Salmon Arm for steer

Juvenile Cases Rate Publicity

Arrests of juvenile offenders and subsequent court cases seldom make the news because of a law prohibiting the publishing of their names.

Unless a juvenile is raised to adult court by a magistrate his name is not public information. But, occasionally a family court judge, or a probation officer, feels some publicity is in the public's best interest.

Kelowna probation officer Steve Campbell, with the agreement of family court judge Ross Collier of Penticton, cites two recent court dispositions.

The first involved a 16-year-old Kelowna youth who was put on probation for taking part in a damage spree at the Kelowna Secondary School. He was also committed to a training facility at a ranch near Penticton.

The second case involved a 14-year-old city boy who was sent to the Brannon Lake Industrial School for disobeying the terms of his probation, imposed earlier.

Mr. Campbell and Judge Collier agreed the cases should be used, without names, from time to time, to let the public know what can be done with juvenile offenders.

"Often," said Mr. Campbell, the public wonders how such offenders are dealt with and often a juvenile thinks if he gets into trouble he'll simply be put on probation."

If probation is ordered and the terms of the probation are broken a juvenile quickly finds himself in more serious trouble.

Toastmasters Turn Reporters During Meeting

Members of the Kelowna Toastmasters club turned newsmen this week.

The occasion was the regular meeting of the club. Vice-president Kai Sylvest presented members with various news items and asked them to imagine themselves as reporters phoning in their stories to a local newspaper.

Speaker for the evening was Fred Zubkoff of Rutland who spoke on the False Front of American Life. The rest of the evening was devoted to a general discussion on how to bring in new members. A consensus showed that with new members of differing backgrounds and ideas a program of richness and variety would further the aim of toastmasters self-improvement in public speaking.

Next meeting of the club will be 6:30 p.m. Monday at Adrienne's restaurant.

Award Night For 4-H Club On Tuesday

Tuesday is awards night in Rutland.

Members of district 4-H beef, home arts and horticulture clubs will be honored at a banquet sponsored by the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce at 6 p.m. in the Centennial Hall.

Besides the 55 members of the three clubs from Rutland to Westbank, a number of dignitaries are expected to attend.

Among them are Wayne Wickens, of Victoria, supervisor of B.C. 4-H clubs, district agriculturalist Arnold Allan of Vernon, and Miss Kathleen Day of Kamloops, 4-H home economist.

Representatives from the chamber of commerce, including president Bruce Winsby and Jack Gerlein, chairman of the agriculture committee will also attend.

Award winners will receive trophies, cups and silver trays, and certificates of merit from the department of agriculture will be presented.

Presentation of awards should be made at 7:15 p.m., preceded by speeches.

4-H is a year-round effort. The home arts club kicks off its year in June and completes its activities the following May.

The beef club season follows the calendar year and the garden club starts in the spring and completes its activities in the fall.

Grape Yields Encouraging With 5,500 Tons Reported

1968 was an off year for tree fruits in the Okanagan-Similkameen the department of agriculture reports.

McIntosh and spartan apple production was down sharply and red and golden delicious production was also reduced. Fruit size was smaller than usual. Prune production was also reduced and was badly affected by climatic disorders.

The cherry crop, both sweet and sour was similarly reduced.

Except for Oliver-Osoyoos where production was lower than usual, a good crop of peaches and a fair crop of apricots was reported in all areas of the Valley.

In spite of the reduced fruit crop grape yields were encouraging with a bumper crop of 5,500 tons reported.

There were below average yields of asparagus due to the late start caused by the 1967 drought. Early cabbage crops were good, with average yields in some areas. Above average yields and a good market were reported for corn. Cucumbers had a good growing season after a late start and finished with average yields. A good growing season was reported for fall planted onions with excellent market and yields.

Spring seeded onions yielded well but wet weather at the end of the season resulted in curing problems. There is a good market but low prices. Tomatoes were delayed by a slow start due to the cool weather but grew well. Wet weather during the harvesting season increased the disease problems and resulted in low yield.

The outlook for 1969 is a return to a normal tree crop or more likely a bumper crop, especially apples.

The increased acreage of young high grade apple cuttings is expected to produce full crops next year.

Most of the 2,300 acres of grapes planted in the Okanagan-Similkameen should be producing within the next two or three years. Production is expected to hit 7,000 tons in 1969.

A summary of fruit production in the Okanagan Valley in 1967 with estimates for 1968 follows: apples 286,964 and an estimated 232,988 tons next year, crabapples 1,107 and 999, pears 38,629 and 42,027, plums 227 and 232, prunes 12,171 and 9,055, cherries 15,443 and 9,449, peaches 21,887 and 13,660, apricots 6,583 and 8,457. The total for 1967 was 382,971 and estimated this year is 316,867.

A summary of principal crops and areas of small fruit, grape and nut production in the Okanagan Valley shows production should be up from last year.

Seven million six hundred and thirty thousand pounds were produced a year ago compared with 11,056,000 this year.

1967 and estimated figures for production of various crops in the Okanagan Valley follow in thousands of pounds: strawberries 141 and 126, raspberries 24 and 24, grapes 7,465 and 10,905.

Rash Of Highway Mishaps Keep RCMP Busy Overnight

Safe Driving Week in Kelowna was ushered in with a fatal car accident, and came to a close with a rash of highway mishaps overnight.

RCMP have laid two traffic charges during the night. Donald Haines Jr., 315 Cadder Ave., was charged with driving without due care and attention after the last control of his car on Maquinn Road. The vehicle left the road and turned over in a pond at 12:15 a.m. Damage was estimated at $400.

A two-car collision at Harvey Avenue and Richter Street resulted in a charge of failing to yield the right-of-way for Alden Tillaupah, 737 Burns Ave. RCMP said Tillaupah drove into the intersection at 2:20 a.m. colliding with a car driven by Basil Carnegie, Rutland. Total damage was about $600.

Don Chmilar, Rutland, was injured in a car accident on South Pandosy Street about 1 a.m. today, but was apparently not taken to hospital. He was driver of a car that collided with a vehicle driven by James Wood, 1012 Bernard Ave. Damage was estimated at $1,300.

A rear-end collision on the Okanagan Bridge at 1:30 a.m. resulted in an estimated $300 to two cars driven by Joan Lyon, Summerland, and Ron Tucker, Westbank. Neither driver was injured.

Last night's crashes brought the total of car accidents in the district to 806. During Safe Driving Week—which started Saturday with the death of Colleen Hobson, Kelowna—at least nine serious highway accidents have occurred, and a number of minor crashes.

Achievement Group Pushes Wreath Production To 160

The Kelco Junior Achievement Company has pushed its Christmas wreath production to 160 and hopes to have the Yuletide decorations sold by Dec. 17.

This was the word from chief organizer Ron Alexander after a meeting Wednesday night.

"We are producing very well," he said and the wreaths have been well received.

Ken Kellough ACT President

Ken Kellough was elected president of the Associated Canadian Travellers at a meeting held Friday night.

The other candidate for president was Ken Cooper.

At Collier and James Murphy were elected vice-presidents. Directors are Jim Desson, Bill Laing, Jack Henderson, Brian McFadden, Frank Feist, Eric Bradshaw, Howard Maxson and Ken Cooper.

One hundred and thirty of the wreaths have been sold by individual calls and a blitz sale is scheduled following the next production night.

Next week's production should increase the total to 200 said Mr. Alexander.

The junior achievement program was nursed along by Mr. Alexander in its first year but has operated in several eastern centres for some time.

There are 18 youngsters from Immaculata High School, Dr. Knox Secondary and Kelowna Secondary involved this year.

Under the program the students form a company, decide on the product or products to be produced, sell the product, and eventually liquidate the business.

They get help from seven adult advisors in the initial stages on the various facets of their company's business.

Our team demonstrations and an "achievement" night for parents of members.

Keeping up with the Kelowna 4-H reputation, the home arts club won both the junior and intermediate trophies for public speaking at the Armstrong Fair's 4-H Day last March.

Other victories were brought back from the PNE this year with three first prizes, one third and one fourth prize in the sewing division. One of the local club members was chosen to represent B.C. at a national 4-H conference in Washington last April.

The home arts group has its season from September to June. The Kelowna 4-H Garden Club, under the direction of Mrs. Malcolm Allan, grows flowers and vegetables, meeting twice a month from February to August, the growing season.

Traditionally sponsored by the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce, the banquet rewards the hard-working youngsters with presentation of prizes and awards gained during the past season.

For all 4-H members in the Kelowna area, a big night is about to arrive—the club's annual achievement banquet, planned for Dec. 10 or 11 at the Rutland Centennial Hall.

Traditionally sponsored by the Kelowna Chamber of Commerce, the banquet rewards the hard-working youngsters with presentation of prizes and awards gained during the past season.

Birthday Doesn't Matter But Jesus Christ Was Born

It is very probable that Christ was not born on Dec. 25, possibly not born in the month of December. But the remarkable thing is that He was born.

During the next few weeks the entire world will hear in some way or another of the birth of Jesus Christ. Dec. 25 has been adopted as a Christian holiday—more so a Holy Day. Many things have been added to the occasion of the celebration—some good, others not so good—but the important thing for us is that the great fact of Christ's birth stands above all else.

The coming of God's Son into the earth is a miracle in itself. A miracle that reminds us of God's great love for mankind. A miracle that gives hope to all of mankind—a Saviour is born. A miracle that has brought untold blessings for almost 2000 years.

A miracle that will touch the hearts of millions again this year through the various celebrations which will take place. There is something about Christmas that does this, possibly it is the fact that God's love for the world becomes more compassionate.

Only 18 days until Christmas. As this Holy day rolls around again this year let us truly prepare our hearts for this wonderful occasion. Often I hear the comment, "The Carol Festival is very wonderful beginning for this festive season." We invite you to attend again this year. Let us ponder and admire the miracle that we celebrate; let us enter into the deepest meaning of the deepest fact of human redemption.

There is so much about this season to detract from the real meaning of it. It will take a conscious effort to put Christ's coming into the proper and focal place during the festive season but as Christians this we want to do. Let us try to count the value of what it means; let us try to imagine the darkness of the night into which we would be plunged, but for the miracle of Christmas.—Rev. John Woltenberg, Pastor, Trinity Baptist Church, Kelowna.

Doctors Doing Fine

(Ottawa Citizen)

Ontario's doctors haven't raised their fees since April 1, 1967. They're planning a 10 per cent increase, effective next April, to apply for the following two years.

That's reasonable in relation to average wage increases in Canada these days.

But at a time when health costs are a significant factor in pushing the consumer price index up, it might be interesting to look at some other figures.

In Ottawa, doctors' fees have risen 40.2 per cent already since 1957; in Toronto, 33.5 per cent; both less than the national average of 43.2 per cent.

In Ottawa, doctors' fees have risen at the same rate as all health services;

in Canada generally, doctors' fees have risen slightly faster.

Health care in Canada (with doctors' fees the major component, in DBS bookkeeping) costs 105 per cent more today than it did in 1949. No other costs have shown anywhere near the increase. Recreation and reading is up 77.4 per cent; food costs are up 52.4 per cent.

Finally, according to the department of national revenue, doctors and surgeons remain the leading income earners in Canada. Their average income in 1966 was $24,993, which was $3,793 more than the next occupational group, engineers and architects. Their average income in Ontario was $27,490.

The doctor. He's doing very well, thank you.

Cost To Provide Job

(Galt Reporter)

It is probable that few people ever stop to think about what it costs to provide them with a job.

The typical employee in the manufacturing industry, for instance, probably never gives a thought to the expense involved in purchasing the machinery, tools, trucks and the like which are essential to his employment. Like the plant itself, they are to him simply company property and accepted as such.

And yet, these things all represent the investment of a considerable sum of money, without which there can be no jobs, notes a writer in "Industry" published by The Canadian Manufacturers' Association.

"Where do they come from, these thousands of dollars which must be spent on equipment necessary to the job? Not from the individual employee. It is nowhere a condition of employment that he or she must contribute any part of it. Not from management. While management may do the spending, it does not have to put up the money.

"The answer, of course, is that it comes from owners or shareholders, men and women with enough confidence in a company to invest their own money in its future. Their willingness to do so—and be content with smaller dividends than would be possible if plant and equipment did not have to be renewed and expanded—is fundamental to any company's ability to grow and provide more jobs.

"How much money is involved? It varies greatly of course from industry to industry and company to company, depending on a number of factors, the most important of which is the amount and sophistication of machinery necessary.

"Successive annual surveys of the manufacturing sales dollar carried out by the Canadian Manufacturers' Association, however, have provided an approximate indication, albeit one which, for several reasons, is distinctly on the low side. They show that the cost of a job in manufacturing industry as a whole over the seven years which have elapsed since the current business expansion commenced in 1961 was of the order of $14,000.

"There must be few employees, we suspect, who will be other than glad that their job does not depend on their having to find such a sum, still less the $40,000 to $50,000 investment required per employee in such "capital intensive" industries as those producing petroleum, chemicals and automobiles," the writer concludes.

LOOKING BACK WITH OLD STAGER

It Was An Earsplitting Time As 'Boys' Came Back From War

By ART GRAY

The Great War as it was then called, came to an end Nov. 11, 1918, and the pages of the Couriers of November and December of that year carry interesting items regarding plans for absorbing the veterans into civil life, and of the welcomes extended to most returned men upon their arrival in the city.

After the first wild exuberance over the coming of peace and final victory, more sober thoughts impelled most to thanksgiving, and in this connection a special service was held in St. Michael and All Angels' Church on the first Sunday in December. It was an inter-denominational thanksgiving service, with Rev. Archdeacon Thomas Greene having associated with him Rev. E. D. Braden of the First United Church, Rev. Arnold Bennett, Baptist minister, and Rev. T. G. Griffiths the Methodist minister from Rutland.

There was a united choir from all the churches under the direction of H. Tod Boyd, who was also organist. The service opened with the popular hymn "Onward Christian Soldiers," but now—praise be—the soldiers were no longer marching forth to war, but were marching home again. There were prayers for the "wounded and the dying" for the hospitals were still filled with casualties, and for the "anxious and the bereaved," an address by Rev. E. D. Braden; the Hallelujah chorus by the combined choirs; a prayer for the Peace Council, and one verse of the National Anthem.

The church was specially decorated for the occasion with the flags of the Allies, and the pulpit was adorned with the Union Jack, the Stars and Stripes and the Belgian flag. The church was filled to overflowing, with extra chairs down all the aisles, and a number of returned soldiers in uniform attended in a body.

The problem of how the large numbers of returning soldiers could be given employment or re-established in civilian life began to trouble a number of people, and the newly established Great War Veterans Association, began to concern themselves with the matter but little achieved. No report appeared in the Courier of their meeting, except a comment that it "accomplished but little." A detailed report, however, is given of a meeting of five well-known citizens of Kelowna, E. R. Bailey, Mayor Sutherland, M. Heron, P. B. Willis and W. Benson who had met with a similar objective in view. They had come up with a plan and had invited the GWVA to appoint representatives to meet and discuss it with them. The veterans body appointed George Kennedy, James Inglis and T. M. Anderson to meet them.

The proposal, as outlined in the Courier, was a sort of co-operative farm in which all the veterans would put in their expected government loans to an incorporated company. The company would acquire a large estate, such as the Belg-Canadian Land Co., or, if made available unused Indian reserve land belonging to tribes whose numbers had dwindled to where they could not use the land set aside for them.

The advantages of the scheme the committee contended, would mean the provision of adequate capital to finance modern machinery, build packing houses or canneries where needed. Chief proponent of the plan, the report stated, was E. R. Bailey, Kelowna's postmaster. Editor George Rose was sold on the idea, and in his column Orchard Run, voiced his opinion thusly:

"It is very nice for the government to promise farm lands to returning soldiers, but it is a well-known fact that many of the returning soldiers have no desire to farm. On this account Mr. Bailey's proposal becomes worthy of being acted upon. He has been thinking this idea out for the last two years, and some time ago placed it in the hands of Hon. Martin Rurrell, but nothing has come of it.

Put into effect, his scheme would allow the returned soldier who wished to farm to do so, in the case of bank or office clerks or commercial men, who were returned soldiers, they could invest their government loan in the incorporated company. It is hoped that the GWVA and citizens committee will be successful in their efforts, and we shall see the scheme running here."

As far as I know, the scheme was never put into operation by the Soldier Settlement Board here. As a one-time soldier-settler myself, following that war, I am sure the reaction of most veterans would be against it. After years of taking orders and being a very small cog in a big army machine, the great desire was to be one's own boss again, and the individual farm or orchard had the greatest appeal.

During the winter of 1918-19 a steady stream of ex-soldiers returned to Kelowna and district. In almost every case they came on the Sicom and as the steamer entered the bay the captain would blow her whistle long and loud, the signal that returning veterans were aboard.

The local mill and power house, and smaller boats would respond, and a crowd would gather at the wharf to welcome the "boys" home. Occasionally it would be known in advance who was coming, and relatives would be there. The Courier of Dec. 26, 1918 describes one of these occasions, that had occurred the week before, when five men returned from Europe, four of whom had been in France and Flanders. The men were Pte R. C. Matthews, Gunner H. L. Willis, Corp. Albert Raymer, Lance Corp. J. M. Paret and Pte H. C. Mallam. At the same time J. Patterson, who had been in the flying corps at Toronto, also returned.

Members of the fire brigade led the demonstration at the wharf, to greet their returning comrades Harman, Willis and Jim Patterson, and they took the fire engines to the wharf. Willis was carried to one of the vehicles, and with sirens shrieking was conveyed to the residence of his brother P. B. Willis. Harman, who now resides on the Belgo, denies this and states that he dismantled at Lawson's store, and went in to see the staff there, where he had formerly worked in peace time.

The fire alarm at the Power House was brought into action, and this, with the search lights of the Sicom, and the blowing of all other whistles in the town, created a spectacular and noisy event.

Here is a brief biography of those that returned from overseas that day: Pte H. G. Matthews enlisted August 1914, and was an original 7th Battalion man. He was wounded at Festubert May 1915, and at Cambrai in September 1918. Gunner Willis served in the artillery in 1916 and 1917 at Hill 70, Vimy and Paschendale; Lance Corp. J. M. Paret enlisted in the 2nd Rocky Mt. Rangers, served in France with the 47th at Lens and Paschendale; Corp. Raymer was unable to go to France due to disabilities, and was kept in Britain as an instructor. Pte H. C. Mallam, of Okanagan Mission took part in the fighting at Paschendale, but with what unit the report does not state. He created quite a lot of interest, however, for he was the first man to return in full service kit, with rifle, pack, "tin" helmet and all.

This was because he was only on leave, not having as yet received his discharge. The scene on the Kelowna wharf that day was repeated many times during that winter and spring, and the whistle of the steamboat never failed to bring a flock of Kelowna citizens to welcome back the returning soldiers.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: The doctor tells me I should have a bunion removed and hammer toe corrected surgically. How serious is this operation, and can I get around pretty well after it?—Mrs. A. M.

It isn't a serious operation, and I don't know of any method that equals surgery in relieving this sort of problem.

Your foot will be tender and you'll do some limping and want to have something pretty soft in the way of footwear at first—but your feet aren't very comfortable now, are they?

In less time than you think, you'll be walking comfortably again, and you'll wonder why you worried about having the surgery.

Airport Poser May Be Eased

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The traffic problem that often causes lengthy takeoff and landing delays at major American airports may be eased considerably in the early 1970s by a network of precise navigation and control satellites.

The satellites could lower required separation distances between aircraft, warn high-flying supersonic jets of radiation dangers, guide craft around bad weather, monitor plane systems for possible trouble, and pinpoint ditched planes or ships in distress.

Officials of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration estimated the system would provide reliability and confidence to air traffic controllers and pilots to permit reduction of the present, widely-spaced separation standards of 138 miles laterally, 20 minutes flying time longitudinally and 2,000 feet vertically.

They said that if the separation standards were changed to 103 miles laterally, 15 minutes longitudinally and 1,000 feet vertically, $46,500,000 would be saved annually by aircraft operating in the heavily travelled North Atlantic region alone.

The latitude, longitude and altitude of an aircraft could be computerized rapidly by the satellites and associated ground equipment at air terminals. The system could tell instantly when two planes were on a collision course and warn them via a satellite radio channel.

The system would permit controllers to plot better the location of planes and thus facilitate planning for landings and take-offs.

A U.S. Navy network of navigation satellites has been operating several years, helping submarines and ships plot their positions with an accuracy of about 600 feet. Last year many of the details of the system were declassified so that commercial shipping could use the satellites.

Now, the air force, navy and NASA are studying next generation satellites that might provide a position accuracy of about 100 feet. Conventional earth-based navigation techniques are accurate to within only two to four miles.

CANADA'S STORY

Like Father, Like Son True Of Macdonalds

By BOB BOWMAN

Sir John A. Macdonald is the best known figure in Canadian political history. How many people know that his son, Hugh, also received a knighthood and became Premier of Manitoba?

Although Hugh was born in Kingston and educated at the University of Toronto, he had good reason to make his home in Manitoba. When he was only 20 years old Hugh Macdonald was a member of the Wolseley expedition that was sent to Red River in 1870 to preserve order after the Riel uprising. It took more than three months for the 1200 troops to travel from Toronto to Fort Garry. They had to portage through Sault Ste. Marie because the Americans would not allow them to use the canal. Then they had to make many more portages through the rough country between Prince Arthur's Landing, now Port Arthur, and their destination. Only 30 miles of the Dawson Road had been completed so the heavy equipment often had to be drawn on rollers along paths which the soldiers cut through the woods. It was a rugged task.

Hugh went back to Toronto and became a lawyer in 1872. After practising there for 10 years, he decided to establish in Winnipeg. Three years later he was a soldier again, briefly, fighting in the North West Rebellion.

Now Hugh Macdonald must have loved Louis Riel!

In 1898 the Manitoba Conservatives felt they had a good chance to defeat the Liberal government provided they had an illustrious political name to lead them. Conservative leader R. P. Roblin stepped down when Hugh Macdonald agreed to accept the challenge. He led the party to victory on Dec. 7, 1899, and became Premier of Manitoba. Hugh Macdonald had previously been a federal member of Parliament and served briefly in Sir Charles Tupper's government before it was defeated by Sir Wilfrid Laurier.

Eventually Hugh Macdonald was defeated by Clifford Sifton and retired from politics. He was knighted in 1912.

OTHER EVENTS ON DEC. 7: 1849—Iroquois massacred mission at St. Jean including Fathers Garnier and Chabanel.

1729—Mississauga Indians surrendered three million acres now Wentworth, Norfolk, and Haldimand Counties.

1782—Lieutenant Governor Parr of Nova Scotia announced arrival of 501 United Empire Loyalists from South Carolina.

1837—William Lyon Mackenzie fled to U.S.A. after his rebellion had been crushed in Toronto.

1869—First issue of Ottawa Free Press.

1941—Canada declared war on Japan, Finland, Hungary, and Romania after Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. The U.S.A. and Britain did not declare war until the following day.

1961—Britain dropped the name "United Kingdom" for "Britain."

UN Arms Cuts Meeting Something Like Iceberg

UNITED NATIONS (CP) — The UN debate on disarmament has been like an iceberg—more has been going on beneath the surface than could be seen in general discussion.

Now, with the weeks-long debate in the General Assembly's political and security committee coming to an end, positions have solidified and resolutions are coming to public notice.

The term disarmament covers an enormous field, all the way from nuclear missiles to germ warfare. The more obvious aspects of it have been heard in open debate, such as repeated calls for Soviet-United States talks on strategic arms limitation and demands for the end of nuclear weapons tests.

But on the scene and behind it there has been a running series of debates that boil down to some smaller powers wanting a piece of the action in controlling peaceful uses of nuclear material and in negotiations on nuclear disarmament.

In this they are pitted against the Big Three nuclear powers—Britain, the United States and the Soviet Union, and some of their allies.

The basic premise of some smaller nations is that they have not yet been sufficiently assured by the Big Three that countries which renounced nuclear weapons will be protected in the event of nuclear attack. And some seek more in the way of assistance in peaceful uses of nuclear energy from the big powers.

Some of the smaller powers see enormous benefits coming from such things as peaceful nuclear explosions. These could move mountains, dig wells, even build a new Panama Canal.

One informed Western source has called this "pie in the sky." A U.S. spokesman said this week that no prediction can be made on when nuclear explosions can be used safely and effectively for peaceful purposes, although research is continuing.

To get into the disarmament and nuclear energy picture, smaller countries have proposed creation of a new UN committee or the reconstituting of an old one.

The Big Three and their allies, including Canada, have fought this.

For the moment the major powers would like to see disarmament kept before the 18-nation disarmament committee through which the treaty to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons—the so-called non-proliferation treaty—was approved earlier this year. Canada is a member of that committee.

The big powers feel that large-scale meetings on disarmament at this time would hamper the collecting of signatures on the non-proliferation treaty. So far 82 countries have signed the treaty but few have ratified it. The non-signatories include some countries which are in the technological position to manufacture nuclear weapons.

DEMANDS LIKELY

To some another large-scale disarmament conference after the General Assembly adjourns this month will give these countries a chance to demand more concessions from the big powers in exchange for their signatures.

On the question of peaceful uses of atomic energy the big powers say there are enough agencies already in existence to deal with this, in particular the International Atomic Energy Commission.

Six countries, Argentina, Chile, Brazil, Italy, Yugoslavia and Pakistan, now have tabled a resolution calling for a meeting of the long-dormant United Nations Disarmament Commission either before July 1969, or after next year's session of the General Assembly and before March, 1970. India, Mexico and Japan are reported to have assisted in drafting the resolution.

The commission is made up of all 126 members of the UN and thus its meeting would be a continuation of the debate now before the General Assembly committee. It has not met since 1963 when it handed an 18-nation committee the job of working on a non-proliferation treaty.

This resolution hardly saw the light of day Thursday when Bulgaria and Hungary put out another.

And both resolutions follow a Dutch-Austrian resolution, co-sponsored by Canada and others, that suggests that the next General Assembly consider the question of convening the commission.

The Bulgarian-Hungarian resolution virtually repeats the operative portions of the Dutch-Austrian resolution but drops all mention of the 126-nation commission, there by opposing the reconstitution of it.

REQUEST EXPERT STUDY

Both request that Secretary-General U. Thant appoint a group of experts to prepare a full report on possible contributions of nuclear technology to the economic and scientific advancement of developing countries.

Britain and the United States had been reported ready to support the Dutch-Austrian resolution.

On the question of security the Big Three have pledged that they will take "immediate action" through the Security Council in the event of a nuclear attack on a nation that has renounced nuclear weapons.

To some countries this is not enough. They say the Security Council may not be able to act fast enough.

Lt.-Gen. E. L. M. Burns, Canada's disarmament negotiator, gave these powers an answer this week: Why not go back to the Security Council and set out what they think the nuclear powers should do in order to give them "satisfactory assurance for their security."

Thus Burns was answering calls for a conference of committees or the 126-nation commission to discuss matters of security.

It is expected the whole matter may be decided by Monday or Tuesday.

Czechs Trade Press Chief

PRAGUE (AP) — The Czechoslovak government has replaced its liberal-minded press control chief amid a crossfire of criticism of his department.

Prague radio said Thursday night that Deputy Premier Peter Colotka was being replaced as chairman of the committee for press and information by Deputy Education Minister Jaroslav Havelka. Colotka will continue to be a deputy premier.

No reason for the change was given, but Communist party leader Alexander Dubcek told 1,200 miners in North Bohemia Thursday night that the press must work to implement party policy.

"It is necessary to increase the responsibility of publishers for the activities of mass information media in order that they become an instrument that help consistently and with initiative to implement the policy of the party," he declared.

"This is not a question of reprimands but a placing of emphasis on the active Socialist approach of all media of information to the present-day tasks, in order that our society may pass through the present complicated period in an organized way—with a deeper upheaval."

The press and information committee was created in response to demands from Moscow for an end to the freedom of the press and radio which Dubcek's regime had allowed to flourish since last January. A curb on the press was one of the purposes of the Soviet invasion last August.

LOOPHOLES APPEAR

Colotka had been seeking to reopen channels of information to Czechoslovak journalists, and loopholes had been appearing in the censorship and controls his committee was supposed to enforce.

The deputy premier also was deeply involved in a near crisis over public demands to put an end to a controversial propaganda sheet.

Behind Scenes Moves Go On At Paris Meetings

PARIS (AP) — While negotiators at the Paris peace talks shadow box in public, many hope they might inch toward a Vietnam settlement in private, unpublished meetings.

Both sides seem unbending in public statements, but they show signs of being less intransigent in private.

Diplomats hope this attitude will prevail after all the procedural disputes about status, seating and the shape of the conference table are hammered out.

Up to now negotiators have been wary about showing their cards in advance, and none of the four sides has said much about the actual substance of peace negotiations, such as conditions for a ceasefire, withdrawal of foreign troops and a political settlement in Vietnam.

The United States-South Vietnamese and Communist positions on how to end the war are so far apart that few can visualize at this stage what a final settlement might look like.

DECEITFUL

The first objective of the talks in the coming months will be to define areas of common ground. But such definitions can be deceptive, and will not necessarily mark any progress toward agreement.

For example, all sides agree on the need to withdraw foreign troops from South Vietnam. But while the Americans and Saigon representatives think mainly in terms of North Vietnamese forces withdrawing, Hanoi and the Viet Cong's National Liberation Front demand the withdrawal of U.S. and other combined forces.

In their public statements, the opposing sides leave little room for compromise.

North Vietnam and the NLF have a rigid program calling for a Communist-dominated government of "national unity" in South Vietnam. This would kick out the current Saigon regime and prepare to merge the country with North Vietnam.

Seigon says this program seeks to achieve Hanoi's war aims at the conference table.

SEEK HANOI DEFEAT

The U.S.-South Vietnamese view of a possible peace settlement on the other hand would mean the final defeat of Hanoi's war aims. It would require disarming Viet Cong units in the South and would leave the political future of South Vietnam in the hands of the Saigon government.

Hanoi says this program seeks to perpetuate "American aggression" in South Vietnam.

The North Vietnamese and NLF delegations face the talks with a united front. While constantly insisting on their sov-ern, independent status, their postures have been identical.

A similar unanimity between Washington and Saigon may be difficult to establish and maintain, particularly with strong-willed Vice-President Nguyen Cao Ky acting as "special adviser" to the South Vietnamese delegation.

AVOID SAIGON OBJECTIONS

American negotiators always have carefully avoided taking any positions on a future political settlement that Saigon might object to. The official American position is that no coalition regime bringing together the Saigon government and the NLF must be imposed on South Vietnam by force.

However, there seems to be a widespread feeling among American officials that Saigon and the NLF will somehow have to be persuaded to discuss a political settlement. A coalition arrangement emerging from such discussions would be regarded as "agreed" rather than "imposed."

North Vietnamese and NLF negotiators say there must be agreement on South Vietnam's political future before there can be any ceasefire.

U.S. Remembers Pearl Harbor Day

PEARL HARBOR, Hawaii (AP) — The United States remembered its fighting men killed during the Pearl Harbor attack 27 years ago with a special memorial service today at the USS Arizona memorial.

Representatives of the National Conference of State Legislative Leaders were among those at services on the gleaming white memorial which straddles the sunken battleship.

The United States entered the Second World War after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor.

The Arizona rests in 38 feet of water at the bottom of Pearl Harbor. The monument over it was dedicated in 1962.

A large marble wall in the shrine room of the memorial is engraved with the names of the 1,177 navy and Marine Corps officers and men who were killed in the attack. There are 1,100 men entombed in the sunken ship.

GREASE BERG

FELIXSTOWE, England (CP) — Ferryman Charles Brinkley went out to investigate what he thought was an iceberg one mile off the Suffolk coast—and found it was made of beef fat. It was believed to have come from a ship which accidentally dropped some cargo overboard.

FBI Accuses Three Suspects With TV Sets Conspiracy

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — The FBI has arrested two men, one described by police as head of Cosa Nostra operations in eastern Pennsylvania, on charges they conspired to transport $25,000 worth of stolen television sets across state lines.

The FBI said they arrested Thursday Russell A. Bufalino, 64, of Kingston, Pa., who claimed he lived for a time in Buffalo, and Salvatore Todaro, 46, of Buffalo.

A third man, John C. Sacco Jr., 41, a former Buffalo sanitation inspector, also was accused in the conspiracy. He is serving a 2½- to seven-year sentence in nearby Attica State Prison on a burglary conviction.

Bufalino was arrested in Pennsylvania and Todaro here. Todaro was arraigned before U.S. Commissioner Edmund F. Maxwell and freed on $10,000 for a preliminary hearing Dec. 13.

Bufalino, operator of several businesses in the Pittston, Pa., area, attended the Nov. 14, 1967, Apalachian convention of alleged crime syndicate leaders, state police said.

The federal government several times has attempted to deport Bufalino, but he maintained he was born in the United States.

The arrests Thursday came nine days after the arrest of nine western New York men on racketeering and conspiracy charges, including Stefano Magaddino of Lewiston, alleged Cosa Nostra boss of upstate New York and southern Ontario.

The three men arrested Thursday were charged in federal complaints with conspiracy to transport in interstate commerce "a quantity of stolen" television sets from Buffalo to Pittston, Pa.

Neil J. Welch, FBI agent in charge of the Buffalo office, said the warrants were based on the theft of 63 color sets from a store in Buffalo last April 29.

He said a subsequent raid on a Buffalo residence May 16 brought the recovery of 59 of the sets together with stolen furs valued at $105,000 and silverware valued at more than $200,000.

SEES A LINK

Welch also said state and federal investigations indicated the possibility of a link between the stolen television sets and the theft of art treasures valued at more than $1,500,000 from three locations earlier this year.

New Students And Teachers Pack George Pringle School

WESTBANK (Special) — Things have been happening at George Pringle Secondary School in Westbank. When school reopened in September it had 50 new pupils, bringing the total student population to 291. The 14 member staff has two new teachers: Miss L. Jones, who originally hails from Chilliwack and who has just returned from a six-month hitch-hike around Europe, and W. Foster, vice-principal, a former teacher of Dr. Knox Secondary in Kelowna.

The school's social events started officially with Initiation Day on Oct. 18. The Grad Class outdid themselves in welcoming the Grade 11's into the senior grades: such tortures as stomping grapes with one's shoes on will never be forgotten by the Grade 11's.

To raise money for the four governing councils (students, Red Cross, fine arts and athletic), the entire school participated in a magazine selling plan. They managed to raise $500 after a three-week campaign. The fine arts council, as a result of money made last year, has purchased curtains (which have not yet arrived) for the stage. And the athletic council has provided the gymnasium with a time clock—good news for all visiting volleyball and basketball teams.

On the sports scene, George Pringle participated in central zone junior and senior boys' soccer and in junior and senior girls' grass hockey. Volleyball brought out the best in us; the junior and senior girls' teams both placed second in the zone, and the senior boys won the central zone and placed second in the Okanagan Valley Tournament. As a result, they will travel to Vancouver this spring to compete in the provincial volleyball playoffs. The basketball teams look very promising and we are looking forward to a really exciting season.

WIDE RANGE

The concert band, under the direction of Mr. Law, has given two evening performances this year; both were co-ordinated with the Rutland Secondary School concert band. The selection of music in the programs ranged from classical to jazz and light music. The Drama 9 and 10 class of Mrs. Tozer presented the two entertaining plays, "Hitchin' to Get Hitched" and "Life of the Party," while the Drama 8 class performed "Christmas Carol Through the Looking Glass." These three plays were acted Dec. 4. The Snow Ball, our Christmas dance, will be held on Dec. 13. The Stonehedge will provide the music. At the same celebration a snow queen will be chosen from the four candidates, Lana Bjarnason, Pat Llewellyn, Terry Reece, and Linda Ruddy.

Free Choice System: That is what is called the Grade 11 and 12 students' privilege to attend, or not attend a class. They are allowed to come and go as they wish, with the stipulation of signing out of the office if they leave the school grounds.

On an experimental basis from the first week in November until the end of December, the system will be evaluated in January. It is found that self-discipline plays a tremendous role in making it work. Most students agree, though, that they are learning more about themselves from it. "Free choosing" is a tremendous lesson in responsibility and students can only benefit from such a lesson.

TAKEN TOP JOB

BAMAKO (AP) — Lieutenant Moussa Traore, chairman of Mali's military committee of national liberation, has taken over as the country's president, it was announced Friday. The first vice-chairman of the liberation committee, Capt. Ymo Diakite, remains prime minister responsible to the committee for running the government. The new setup will be in force until a national referendum is staged in six months.

French RCs Denounce Pope

PARIS (AP) — A French Roman Catholic group claiming to comprise more than 700 laymen and priests have sent Pope Paul a letter denouncing the Catholic Church for clinging to its secular power and refusing to follow Christ's call to poverty.

The letter, published in French newspapers today, said the papacy's opulence often was harmful in the past, but now "has become an intolerable scandal."

Prices Rise Even Quicker

OTTAWA (CP) — There is evidence that the speed with which consumer prices have been rising is quickening.

Just the opposite was the case six months ago, when the rate of climb was tapering off, if only temporarily.

The Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Friday that November's consumer price index was 4.3 per cent higher than in November last year.

The index, based on 1949 prices equalling 100, was 157.5 last month, 156.8 in October, and 151.0 in November, 1967.

The latest 12-month climb of 4.3 per cent compares with 4.2 in October, 3.8 in September, and 3.4 in August.

Higher postal rates and new car prices were mainly responsible for the latest increase. While new car prices may taper off as the model year progresses, higher postal rates are here to stay.

In consumer goods and services, Canada's price performance is at least as bad and perhaps worse than the United States.

ANN LANDERS

Horse Races Preferable For These Gamblers

Dear Ann Landers: I can't resist the temptation to comment on the problem Sid was having with his bride-to-be Doris. He became upset when he learned Doris had had her nose remodeled and had kept it from him. Sid expressed his anxiety to Doris' father over lunch—saying he was concerned about what their unborn children might look like.

Your reply, "Better the kids should inherit Doris' old nose than Sid's brains," reminded me of this true story.

When I was young I remember my father asking a very intelligent but homely uncle why he was going to marry a certain young lady who was extremely beautiful, but unbalanced. In fact, everyone who knew the girl said she was crazy. My uncle replied, "I want children who will be beautiful like their mother and intelligent like me."

My uncle and his wife had five children. Every one of those kids is homely like their father and crazy like their mother.—PAUL L.

Dear Paul: No one can predict what the genes and chromosomes will produce. For people who wish to gamble, I recommend the horse races.

Dear Ann Landers: A couple years ago you printed a letter from a teen-ager who asked you to help bridge the generation gap in her house. She said her parents kept harping on how things were when they were teen-agers and this only made matters worse. After all, it's a different world today and everything has changed, including the teen-agers.

Your answer was the best thing I had ever read on the subject. I cut it out and pinned it to the bulletin board in the kitchen. It helped a lot in our house.

The clipping is getting ragged and I would like to have a fresh copy to pin up. Thank you.—GLAD THERE'S AN ANN LANDERS.

Dear Glad: Happy to oblige. Attention Parents or "Fellow Antiques." The one phrase that kids do not want to hear is, "When I was your age." In the first place, they don't believe you ever were.

In the second place, they couldn't care less "how it was." They are concerned with how it is. Comparisons are not only boring, they are meaningless.

Your children are growing up in a different world than the one you and I know. They have different problems, different pressures—and different parents. Teen-agers today have it easier in some ways, but their lives are much more complicated and frustrating in other ways. One thing is certain—I'm glad I am not in high school today, I'm not at all sure I could make it.

Confidential to Need Him: You need him like Custer needed more Indians. Stop telling the loafer to get out of your life. He won't do it. Why should he? He's having a ball, and all for free. Get out of his.

HITHER and YON

Mrs. M. J. (Flora) Evans, who leaves the Daily Courier staff this weekend, would like to thank her many friends and readers and the Kelowna Women's Clubs for their cooperation in helping her to build up the Women's page during the past eight years. Mrs. Evans plans to fly to California on December 16 to spend Christmas and New Years with her daughter, Mrs. J. R. Clifton and her family at Yorba Linda, but she does not intend to remain in California permanently and will return to Kelowna in January.

Mr. and Mrs. W. R. Carruthers left Friday for Vancouver where they will board the S.S. Orsonia on Dec. 9 for a six month's cruise. Sailing via Hawaii and the Fiji Islands they will spend Christmas in Auckland, New Zealand, and New Years in Rotura before visiting other New Zealand cities and returning to Auckland which they will leave on February 4 for Melbourne and Sydney Australia en route to Hong Kong, Singapore and Colombo. From Durban they will take a motor trip to South Africa and will visit Johannesburg, finally embarking from Capetown on the S.S. Orsonia with stop offs at Dakar, Casablanca and Lisbon to spend several weeks in London and will visit Scotland before leaving from Southampton on the S.S. Orsonia for Bermuda, Port Angeles, Nassau, Cristobal, Balboa, Acapulco, Los Angeles, San Francisco and Vancouver en route home. During their absence their home will be occupied by friends from the coast.

Having disposed of their home on Leon Ave., Mr. and Mrs. Harry Unger will leave shortly for Evansburg, Alta., to spend Christmas with their son David before travelling to San Diego and on to Hawaii for a three or four months stay during which they will visit various other Pacific Islands.

The Kelowna Golf and Country Club will be a center of gaiety over the Christmas season and will hold their annual very popular At Home on Boxing Day at 4 p.m., as well as a New Years Eve Ball which will be limited to 90 couples. The ball will take place from 10 p.m. till 2 a.m., and will be followed by a smorgasbord. Members of the club will have the first call on tickets so book yours early. The Annual meeting which is most important to all members will be held Monday, Dec. 9, and you are urged to attend as new directors will be elected for the coming year and committee reports will be given.

Mrs. Michael Lewis who is expected home next Thursday travelled to England recently where she was called by the sudden death of her father.

Mrs. Robert Bletcher leaves on Sunday for Hawaii via Los Angeles where she will spend a few days with her son-in-law and daughter Mr. and Mrs. Michael Baus at Surfside, California, before travelling on to join Mr. Bletcher. Mr. and Mrs. Bletcher plan to spend the inter months at the Ilika Hotel in Honolulu.

Miss Julia Gaffyne leaves on Tuesday for England where she will spend the Christmas holiday season visiting her parents Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Gaffyne at Downton, Wiltshire.

Some hundred members of the UCV gathered at the First United Church on Thursday afternoon to honor Mr. and Mrs. Gowie for their 25 years of service as janitors of the church.

Family Doctors Like Wine-Making

VANCOUVER (CP) — Take a good look at your family doctor's feet next time you go in for a check-up. If they're purple, he's probably a member of one of the largest single groups of amateur wine-makers.

"About 40 of every 1,000 doctors makes his own wine—a percentage far above the average for other professions," says Dr. Kenneth Cambon, an ear specialist who has been making and prescribing wine for the last nine years.

Actually the wine-maker and physician have always maintained a close association. "Egyptians used a mixture of wine and vinegar for cleaning ears in a practice similar to our use of eardrops," says Dr. Cambon.

The Greeks used "the blood of the grape" on post-tonsillectomy sponges to help heal the wound. And at various times, wine has been used as an aphrodisiac, a tranquilizer for the insane, a gargle and an elixir.

Dr. Cambon says the discovery that bacteria were the cause of much disease has tended to de-emphasize the fact that sickness can also be influenced by social, anatomical and environmental factors.

Wine could be used to help cure many minor illnesses, he says. "For instance I will suggest that a person with a nervous throat spasm drink wine with meals."

The wine will provide a gracious atmosphere conducive to relaxation and "the spasm will disappear."

Wine can also be used to treat an inner ear disease because it dilates blood vessels. It might also be prescribed as a sedative for old people or a means of depressing the blood pressure of a person with a nose bleed.

"To quote the Talmud: 'Wine nourishes, refreshes and cheers. Wine is the foremost of medicines,'" says the doctor.

FORMED FROM FERNS Much of the world's coal was formed from decayed fiddle-head ferns.

ACW Holds Annual Meet

PEACHLAND (Special)—Mrs. George Long was elected president for the coming year at the recent annual meeting of St. Margaret's Anglican Church Women. Peachland, with Mrs. George Smith re-elected vice-president. New secretary-treasurer is Mrs. H. C. MacNeill and Mrs. Earl Sutherland Dorcas chairman. Re-elected to the social service position was Mrs. H. E. Wilds, while serving on the work committee are Mrs. Ivor Jackson, Mrs. Ted Topham and Mrs. George Smith.

Guest at this meeting Mrs. W. Aitkins from Kelowna, a past president of the group, and guest speaker of the afternoon was Mrs. Tom Melville, of Kelowna, chairman of the central Okanagan regional ACW. Mrs. Melville explained the new regional grouping and gave the meeting a run down on her duties as chairman.

Reports were given on the groups annual bazaar held in November. This was a successful undertaking. Arrangements were made for the sending of Christmas cards to shut-ins and former members, and final plans made for the serving at a banquet.

Garden Club Enjoys Wild Flower Slides

Color slides featuring Alpine flowers at Peyto Lake were the highlight of the annual December social meeting of the Kelowna and District Garden club Wednesday night.

The slides and commentary by Mrs. Ernest Worman included other wild flowers of B.C. and Alberta taken during summer trips, as well as scenes from Kelowna gardens.

More than 50 members attended the meeting held in the activity room of the Graham St. Elementary school. A short business meeting preceded the slides and a social hour and refreshments wound up the evening agenda.

The club meets on the first Wednesday of every month, with the exception of January, July and August. No meetings are held in these months. Newcomers and gardeners are welcome to the meetings, which are held in the same building each month.

Peters
Aids
Union

Should women be ordained to the ministry? What is the function of bishops, priests and deacons? Under what terms can the United Church and Anglican Church of Canada unite? These are some of the questions Jake Peters, Kelowna, is helping a national body to answer. He is the lay representative of the United Church of Canada on the Commission on Doctrine, which is working toward union with the Anglican Church of Canada.

Mr. Peters as one of ten representatives of each church who met recently in Toronto for a four-day conference on ecumenism. In addition to discussing aspects of church union, the commission continued amending a "Declaration of Faith" suitable to both churches.

"I feel very strongly personally that the church in defining its faith should use the language of neighborhood life," Mr. Peters said before the meeting. "That members understanding this language must strive to carry out more fully their convictions in daily life."

Church Can Be 'Boring'
Has Little Meaning For Youth

OTTAWA (CP) — An Anglican bishop told the commission studying union between his church and the United Church of Canada Thursday that going to church can be "quite a boring experience," for some people.

Rt. Rev. S. C. Steer, Bishop of Saskatchewan, asked as the commission studied a report on worship that consideration be given to the place of formal church-going in the Christian life.

Bishop Steer also questioned whether the mere revision of present structures of worship will meet the situation.

He said there should be less concern with liturgical procedures and more with making worship an experience that means something.

"Surely if we are to enjoy God forever we should start enjoying Him now," Bishop Steer said.

Poor attendance by young persons at services was an indication that worship, as it now is set out, has little meaning for them.

However, he argued there is merit in being bored occasionally.

CAN'T START AFRESH
There appeared to be a consensus among commission members that traditional ecclesiastical language cannot be entirely disregarded in evolving a form of worship to meet the needs of the present world.

Very Rev. Wilfred Lockhart, a former moderator of the United Church, said the language of the earlier church should not be rejected out of hand.

He said there are persons in the church sensitive to language and their feelings should be respected.

"I don't find that the modern generation is unable to understand Shakespeare," Dr. Lockhart said.

Hearing Waits For A Verdict

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — All of the evidence now is in the record but it may be two weeks before the jury brings in a verdict on Dancer's Image, winner of the 1968 Kentucky Derby.

The estimate was made by chairman George Egger of the Kentucky Racing Commission, which must decide whether the colt was carrying phenylbutazone in his system during the May 4 race.

U.S. Skiers Impressive

ASPEN, Colo. (AP) — The United States, showing surprising strength in the men's giant slalom, had a head start today in the French-American Challenge Cup competition.

With 10 points still at stake in slalom competition today, the United States held a 6-4 lead.

A strong charge by Hank Kashiwa, Old Forge, N.Y., in the final giant slalom heat sent the U.S. ahead.

Kashiwa and Frenchman Patrick Russell were separated by 2:10 of a second each time as they split the first two runs. In the third heat, Kashiwa finished 7:10 of a second ahead of Russell.

Barbara Cochran, 17, provided one of the two U.S. women's skiing victories. She defeated Isabelle Mir, 2-1, including a margin of 1.4 seconds in the final run. Kiki Cutter, Bend, Ore., posted a 2-0 victory over Florence Staurer.

Michelle Jacot, 16, of France easily beat Penny McCoy of Bishop, Calif., winning by 1.5 seconds in the first run and 1.4 seconds in the second.

The French drew first blood when Annie Famoso defeated Erica Skinger of the United States in two straight runs.

Ingrid Laforgue edged Judy Nagle, Emuclaw, Wash., by margins of less than a half second for the other French women's victory.

ALJE REPORTS

Rocky Road In Baseball

By ALJE KAMMINGA

BASEBALL'S MOST EXPENSIVE experiment ended Friday with the resignation of commissioner William D. Eckert.

His three-year reign served only to speed the downhill path which baseball has travelled for the past several years. Attendance dipped every season and when Eckert finally vacated the post, the drop was well in excess of 2,000,000 fans.

Eckert took his position as commissioner in a delightful daze, shared by him and the owners who hired him. He had no previous baseball experience and his announced hiring brought shock from all baseball people.

Baseball's next commissioner will be a man who knows the sport. This is a must if a dying sport hopes to make even one more grasp for survival.

FOLLOWING IS A Canadian Press account of Eckert and the job he held for three years.

"A less flamboyant man you could hardly imagine," was the way former NATO commander Gen. Lauris Norstad described his West Point classmate, William D. Eckert.

"He was very quiet, dignified, orderly. A man of moderation."

William D. Eckert changed little through his rise to general in the Air Force and a brief business career as a Washington executive. And he remained the same colorless personality through a three-year reign as commissioner of baseball.

When major league baseball owners took the sports world by surprise by naming him to the post in November 1965, Eckert's lack of background in professional sports prompted baseball great William Mays to ask, "Who's he?"

TO THE TIME of his resignation Friday, he still was referred to by baseball people as the "unknown soldier."

"I don't need to defend myself," he said in a recent interview.

"I am not the kind of guy who rushes out and seeks publicity. I don't have to advertise what I've done as long as the job gets done."

That was Eckert's way. Although he travelled to major league cities and talked to owners and players more than any other commissioner, he thought of himself as a behind-the-scenes organizer, preferring to work in the confines of his well-decorated Fifth Avenue office in New York.

He advocated co-operation and persuasion, not arbitrary ruling, for the commissioner, a philosophy that only served to further his image as a passive man. For this method of operation, he was often criticized in the press, just as was Ford Frick, his predecessor.

FOR EXAMPLE, Eckert was blasted for not sternly postponing all games the day after the death of Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., or stepping quickly and sternly into the players versus owner Charles Finley affair.

He preferred instead to work through committees and studies, perhaps a carryover from military life.

However, the commissioner was proud of the active part he took in expansion and raising television revenues for the leagues and for the better relations during his term between colleges and pro baseball. He was proud of his attempts and of baseball's popularity and of the increased benefits and salaries received by players.

"I don't think I have to operate as a czar," he explained.

"I'm more of a businessman who gets things done the best way possible."

BUT IN THE END, he felt that a baseball man, not a businessman, would be best for baseball.

"Not being a baseball man," said the 59-year-old retired general, "I haven't been hardened by fixed positions in the past."

Although he studied the rule books, talked to baseball people and picked the learned baseball mind of Joe Reichert, his right-hand assistant, he never was able to bring on the image that he was a baseball man.

He talked mostly in platitudes of "the great game of baseball" and he was a nervous, unimpressive public speaker.

But he didn't give the impression of a military man either, despite his great success, except for his sturdy posture. The native of Freeport, Ill., worked hard to reach the rank of lieutenant-general after graduating from West Point in 1930.

REMEMBER WHEN . . . Ottawa Senators set a record in the Quebec Senior Hockey League 28 years ago today — in 1940 — by beating Montreal Concordia 3-2, making the 12th straight game without a defeat. The sting was snapped at the next game when they tangled with Verdun Red Devils.

GOALMOUTH ACTION

like that above has highlighted several B.C. Junior Hockey League games this season but the Kelowna Buckaroos are hoping most of the remaining action occurs at the opposite end of the rink. Goaltender Ron Pyle was busy here but he had an easy night Friday when Gary Osborne took over the netminding chores. Osborne held the Rockets to four goals, one into an empty net, but the Bucks lost 4-2. The Rockets are the visitors tonight at the Memorial Arena, game time is 8:30 p.m.

Rockets Beat Buckaroos To Tighten Junior Race

Kelowna Buckaroos inability to beat Kamloops Rockets is costing them a good shot at first place in the B.C. Junior Hockey League.

And unless the situation improves quickly, their misfortune with Kamloops could damage Kelowna's chances of even grabbing a B.C.J.H.L. playoff spot.

The Rockets stayed off a late Kelowna rally Friday to defeat the Buckaroos 4-2 in Kamloops. The game was the first of a home-and-home series between the two teams. Second game goes tonight at the Memorial Arena, beginning at 8:30 p.m.

The Rockets were in control throughout Friday's encounter. They scored the only goal of the first period, Bruce Johnson converting a pass from Rick Beauchamp and Jim Redding at the 5:00 mark.

The 1-0 lead stood up through the second period and early into the final frame. Marv Ferg upped the count to 2-0 at 5:08 of the third period and fed Don Stewart a pass at 14:22 to boost the Rockets into a 3-0 lead.

... one goal

The Buckaroos finally came to life at 17:15 of the period when Don Bassett scored on a pass from Larry Lenarduzzi. Just 33 seconds later, Gene Carr found the range, breaking in alone on a pass from Dave Yarocki.

Stewart scored his second goal of the game at 19:17 after Kelowna had pulled goaltender Gary Osborne in favor of an extra attacker.

Osborne faced 32 Kamloops shots while Kamloops goaltender John Blade handled 36 Kelowna drives.

Tonight's game at the Memorial Arena will be the first home contest for the Buckaroos since the end of the Canadian Union of Public Employees ended its strike.

During the strike, the Buckaroos attracted an average of about 750 fans a game, slightly more than last year when there was no strike to affect the crowds.

Kelowna manager Scotty Angus expects the biggest crowd of the season tonight. He said the entire team was happy about the large crowds during the strike and feels they will increase in size during the remainder of the season.

"The Buckaroos are a contender this season which has naturally helped the crowds," Angus said. "The league is more balanced and most of the teams have improved. The crowds are bound to improve even more."

A New Commissioner To Rescue Dying Sport

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The man who replaces William D. Eckert as baseball commissioner will be from inside the game. The owners are not about to repeat their "unknown soldier" adventure.

Among those mentioned to replace Eckert, dismissed Friday after a special owners' meeting, are Michael Burke, boss of New York Yankees; Joe Cronin, president of the American League and Robert Cannon, now a judge and formerly attorney for the players.

But the question is: Which member of baseball's inner circle would want a job, which is growing more difficult by the moment?

For openers, the new commissioner faces the most serious threat of players' strike in the game's history. And neither side appears to be in a mood to compromise.

And he would have to operate for an unspecified length of time while an outside research group makes a study that could lead to vast changes in the organization of the game, possibly eliminating the commissioners job.

ASKED TO QUIT

For the record, Eckert resigned, saying that "a baseball man can more effectively do the job." But it is clear that he had been asked to quit by owners convinced he was not what the game needed.

The 59-year-old former Air Force general seldom took a strong public stand on the problems that arose during his tenure.

And the game's attendance has declined by nearly 2,250,000 admissions in the three years he has been in office while professional football has been steadily on the rise.

Meanwhile, players and owners appear to be more anxious to make their pension fund dispute a bitter test of wills than to settle it.

Friday, for instance, the owners waved the red flag in front of the angry bull by adopting a new category for players' rosters called the temporary inactive list.

This allows a club to take an ill or non-baseball injured player off its active roster for a

WHAT A DIFFERENCE a year makes. In the Western Division of the National Hockey League last season, the Philadelphia Flyers were the pennant winners while the Oakland Seals floundered in the league cellar. In the NHL's only game Friday, the Seals riddled the Flyers 4-0 to move into second place while the Flyers remained tied for fifth spot. Charlie Hodge, allowing the Flyers a goal in a recent game above, was replaced by Garry Smith Friday. Smith was flawless in his effort to nab the first goaltending position with Oakland.

Seals Blank Philadelphia To Grab Second Place

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Oakland Seals wanted Garry Smith to prove himself—and he did just that Friday night.

The 24-year-old Ottawa-born goalie, benched earlier in the season along with veteran Charlie Hodge, blocked 24 shots as Oakland blanked Philadelphia Flyers 4-0. It was the first shutout of the season for Smith and the Seals, and sent Oakland into second place in the National Hockey League's Western Division.

Smith, who posted a 3.19 goals against average in 21 games with the Seals last season, was benched four games ago when the Seals replaced him with Chris Worthy. He was called upon to make 11 saves in the third period to salvage the shutout.

The win was the seventh for the Seals in 25 games and gave them a one-point edge over the Los Angeles Kings, in third place with 18 points. St. Louis Blues lead the division with 28 points.

MacKay was the outstanding player of his game as he blocked 48 Calgary shots, 19 in the third period when Stampede broke a 2-2 tie. Cranbrook sent 34 shots at Calgary goalie Jim Letcher.

Carl Chwacka, a former Nelson player, scored Calgary's winning goal. Other markers came from George Hill and Ron Forester. For Cranbrook, Ron Huston, with his 24th, and Wally Chernenko scored.

In Nelson, the visiting Dynamieters had goals from Wally Souter, Bill McLellan, Wayne King and Walter Peacock. Rod Collins scored for Maple Leafs, who trailed 1-0 and 3-1 by periods.

Bill McDonnell made 27 saves for Nelson while Ed Babluk handled 20 for Kimberley. Leafs drew five of nine penalties, including a 10-minute misconduct to Cory Agar for arguing an icing call.

In Spokane, Jets trailed 3-2 going into the final period but had the spark of a three-goal night from Dave Toner. Other Jets' scorers were John Kenny, Tom Hodges and Charlie Goodwin.

Ken Koshey scored a pair for Smoke Eaters and singles were added by Billy Martin and Ken Uzeloc.

Trail goalie Reno Zanler stopped 36 shots while Dave Cox of Spokane kicked out 24. Tonight, Nelson is at Kimberley, Cranbrook at Spokane and Calgary at Trail.

WHL Hectic For Goalies

Goaltenders were busy men in Western International Hockey League play Friday but the busiest, Moose Mackay of Cranbrook Royals, couldn't produce a victory to make up for the hard work.

Royals bowed 3-2 to Calgary Stampede of the Alberta Senior Hockey League in Cranbrook. In WHL games, Spokane Jets defeated Trail 6-4 in Spokane and Kimberley defeated Nelson Maple Leafs 4-1 in Nelson.

After a scoreless second period, Joe Saura, Norm Ferguson and Gary Jarrett tallied in a little more than four minutes. It was the only NHL game Friday night.

Tonight, the battle for first place in the Eastern Division continues as New York Rangers invade fourth-place Toronto Maple Leafs and Montreal Canadiens play at home to Chicago Black Hawks. The Rangers and Canadiens are tied for first with 32 points each.

In other games tonight, Detroit Red Wings play at Boston, Pittsburgh is at St. Louis and Minnesota visits Los Angeles. In Sunday games, Toronto is at Pittsburgh, Detroit at New York, Boston at Chicago, St. Louis at Philadelphia and Minnesota at Oakland.

Games Tonight: Chicago at Montreal, New York at Toronto, Detroit at Boston, Pittsburgh at St. Louis, Minnesota at Los Angeles.

Games Sunday: Toronto at Pittsburgh, Detroit at New York, Boston at Chicago, St. Louis at Philadelphia, Minnesota at Oakland.

More Trades In Baseball

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Three more trades—none more exciting than the eight that preceded them—were made at the final day of the winter baseball meetings Friday.

Chicago White Sox were involved in two of the trades, sending pitcher Jack Fisher to Cincinnati for catcher Don Pavletich and pitcher Don Sechrist while selling outfielder Leon Wagner outright to the Reds.

New York Yankees sent third baseman Charlie Smith to San Francisco Giants for infielder Nate Oliver.

That brought to 26 the number of players traded at the week-long sessions.

The majors approved a pre-season exhibition game between members of Eastern and Western Division teams in honor of the late Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. The game will be played in Los Angeles March 29 with the proceeds going to the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

The leagues also turned down proposals to decrease the player limit from 25 to 23 and to increase the waiver price to $25,000 from $23,000. They approved a contribution of $276,000 to amateur baseball organizations.

Controversial Decision Brings Riot To Boxing

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Australia's Lionel Rose is still the world champion bantamweight boxer and Mexico's Chucho Castillo goes home a disappointed challenger.

Rose, 20, was awarded a split decision over Castillo, 24, after 15 rounds of bristling action Friday night.

Minutes after the decision was announced, irate Castillo supporters started a riot. An estimated 20 fires blazed in the Forum's spacious confines, most of them in upholstered seats. Smoke filled the arena.

Seats were torn from moorings and hurled in the air; so were bottles, king-sized waste baskets—anything throwable. Boxing writers ducked under the ring.

Rose's manager, Jack Rennie, was cut on the arms and legs by flying glass as he and Lionel fought to get to the dressing room.

FLIP CARS OVER

Expensive cars in the parking lot were overturned or battered. And promoter George Parnass, who in 40 years of importing boxing talent from Mexico to fame and wealth in Los Angeles, sadly and in tears said this was his last promotion.

Judges John Thomas and Lee Grossman carded the fight 7-6 for Rose.

Referee Dick Young scored it 9-7 for Castillo. Referee Young ironically was cut on the head by a flying bottle and required four stitches.

The Associated Press scored it 8-5, Castillo.

The anticipated lightning did not strike except in the 10th round. Castillo, with 17 knockouts to his credit in 26 victories, caught the champion with a hard right to the jaw. Rose was floored, bounced up at four, took the mandatory eight-count and escaped further trouble the remainder of the round.

The champion's effective counter punching in the final rounds apparently caught the eyes of the judges.

"I'm confident I won," Castillo said later. "I'll fight him for nothing again—here, in Australia or anywhere. It was a bad decision."

NFL's Central Division Race Reaches Climax This Weekend

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Baltimore's big, bruising Colts invade Green Bay today to take on the crippled Packers in a National Football League game that could spell the end of the Packers' long title reign.

NFL champions for the last three years and two-time Super Bowl kingpins, the Packers are on the verge of being eliminated from the Central Division race.

Green Bay, with a 5-6 record, is one-half game behind division co-leaders Minnesota Vikings and Chicago Bears.

Elsewhere in the NFL, Chicago, whose attack has been blunted by injuries, hopes to take a step closer to the playoffs Sunday when they meet Los Angeles Rams.

Despite the fact that they have had injuries to four quarterbacks and are without star runner Gale Sayers for the rest of the season, the Bears are still tied with Minnesota Vikings for first place in the Central Division with a 6-6 record.

But they'll need more than incentive against the Rams, who are engaged in a dogfight of their own. After last week's games the Rams had a 10-11 mark and were one-half game behind first-place Baltimore in the Coastal Division.

Webb Ewbank may decide to rest some of his Jets now that they have clinched the Eastern Division title. Joe Namath played only one half last week and may see only part-time duty against Cincinnati. It will be the first meeting between the two clubs in regular season.

If the Western race winds up in a tie, there are several possible combinations. In a two-way tie, it would be Kansas City at Oakland, San Diego at Oakland or San Diego at Kansas City, on the weekend of Dec. 22. In a three-way tie, Oakland would be at Kansas City with the winner at San Diego, Dec. 29. The championship game, now set for Dec. 29 at New York, then would have to be set to Jan. 5.

OTHER GAMES SLATED In other NFL action Sunday, Cleveland Browns (9-3) will be at Washington Redskins (4-8); Minnesota at San Francisco (4-9); St. Louis Cardinals (7-4-1) at New York Giants (7-5); Pittsburgh Steelers (2-9-1) at Dallas Cowboys (10-2); New Orleans Saints (3-8-1) at Philadelphia Eagles (1-11); and Detroit Lions (3-7-2) at Atlanta Falcons (2-10).

The chance of a tie playoff hangs over the three contenders in the Western Division of the American Football League with Kansas City Chiefs, Oakland Raiders and San Diego Chargers still in the race with two games to go.

MAPLE LEAF COACH

Expansion Hurt Imlach's System

By STERLING TAYLOR Canadian Press Staff Writer National Hockey League expansion has strangled the system that gave Punch Imlach four Stanley Cup championships in 10 years as coach and general manager of Toronto Maple Leafs.

Now, instead of seeking experienced talent from the league, he is forced to draw from the ranks of his own roster in a last-ditch attempt to reach the Eastern Division playoffs.

The Imlach system began early in the 1958-59 season when he added the role of coach to that of general manager with the firing of coach Billy Reay. The club had finished in last place the previous season and was stumbling aimlessly that year.

Then, building around the acquisitions of seniors Allan Stanley and Red Kelly on defence and Johnny Bower in goal, Imlach moulded a club that reached the playoffs that season and won the Stanley Cup in 1962 and 1963.

The team began to falter during 1963-64, but Imlach engineered a trade for Andy Bathgate and Don McKenney of New York Rangers that gave the Leafs another Stanley Cup—this time straight.

LET YOUNGSTERS GO "I've given up a lot of younger talent (Dick Duff, Bob Nevin, Anne Brown, Bill Collins and Red Seeling) but they couldn't win me the Stanley Cup," he said at the time. The Leafs were beaten in the Stanley Cup semi-finals the following two seasons. Then bolstered by defence-men Marcel Pronovost from Detroit Red Wings for Bathgate and veteran goaltender Terry Sawchuk from the Wings, Imlach again led them to the Stanley Cup championship in 1966-67.

PUNCH IMLACH guides Leafs

It was evident during the six-game series with Chicago Black Hawks and Montreal Canadiens that spring that Imlach would need replacements the following season.

and defenceman Bobby Baun were both labelled trading material after riding the bench most of the season. Kelly, 40, hinted that he hoped to retire and begin a coaching career.

Stanley was 41 years old and veteran captain George Armstrong was 37.

Normally, Imlach would have looked around the six-team league for players who could still play two-way hockey on a team that emphasizes checking more than goal-getting but who could no longer skate for teams like Detroit and Montreal Canadiens.

Unfortunately, the league was busy expanding to another six teams—the Western Division—and Imlach's lifeline was cut off.

Needless to say, he would have gone after Charlie Hodge, a power-play specialist who had retired the previous season after failing to get a full-time job with Chicago, Earl Ingarfield of New York, Red Berenson of Montreal or Ed Van Impe of the Black Hawks.

Although most of these players had been relegated to minor-league status by their respective owners, they had been seasoned in the big league and were the type of two-way players Imlach needed.

Imlach may also have attempted to negotiate for Guy Gendron of Quebec Aces of the American Hockey League, Ken Schinkel of New York, Lou Angotti of Chicago or Elmer Vasko of the Hawks who retired the previous season.

But these players were lost to Imlach, gobbled up by the expansion teams and the Leafs were forced to fill the gaps with inexperienced talent from their own minor system.

Now, the Leafs find themselves in danger of missing the playoffs for the second straight year. The higher echelon of Maple Leaf Gardens—the team owners—have given Imlach a vote of confidence with an ultimatum: "Make the playoffs."

NEW CASH ACCOUNT RULES

Commencing December 1, 1968, the Investment Dealers' Association of Canada will require all member firms to observe new regulations regarding the settlement of clients' cash accounts.

The purpose of the new rules, which are also being adopted by all of the stock exchanges in Canada, is to upgrade the credit practices in the industry by preventing any dealer from condoning slow payment by clients for competitive reasons. This will protect the interests of clients in the long run by creating a stronger investment industry.

The great majority of investors will not be affected inasmuch as they have already established the practice of making payments and deliveries promptly. Payments or deliveries have, on occasion, been delayed. Under the new regulations member dealers will be required in such instances to automatically sell out securities that have not been paid for or buy in securities that have not been delivered.

It is important that investors be conversant with the details of these new regulations, a copy of which may be obtained from any member of this association.

5. In Memoriam

DIHANITS — In loving memory of our dear father and grandfather, Mathias Dihanits, who passed away Dec. 7, 1967.
To hear his voice, to see his smile:
To sit with him and talk
awhile;
To be together in the same old way,
Would be our dearest wish
today.
He was a father so very rare,
Content in his home and always there.
He shared our troubles and helped us along.
Happy and smiling, always content.
Only a cluster of memories,
Sprayed with a million tears
Wishing God had spared you,
Just for a few more years.
— So sadly missed and always remembered by your loving daughters, Marie and Ann,
sons-in-law and grandchildren. 108

GRINWITSKI — In loving memory of my dear father Gustav Grinewitski, who passed away Dec. 7, 1967.
Though your smile has gone
forever,
And your hand cannot touch
me,
I have so many memories of you, Dad.
Because I loved you very much.
— Sadly missed by his daughter
Elaine and family Henfling.

6. Cards of Thanks

WE WISH TO EXPRESS our thanks to our friends, neighbors, for the lovely flowers, and sympathy shown us in the loss of our dear dad and granddad.
Rev. Adam, Dr. Carruthers,
Dr. O'Donnell and nurses for the kindness shown during his illness, also the nurses at the Health Clinic and Mrs. Day and Don.

—The Sackmann family

KELOWNA HELPS ARTHRITIS CENTRE

A selected group of citizens in Kelowna has been chosen to contribute $10,000 toward the construction of an Arthri-tis Centre in Vancouver. Costing $750,000, the centre will be close to the province's only school of medicine and largest teaching hospital, and is designed to be a national leader in research and care of arthritis sufferers. In a letter sent from the Kelowna branch of the Canadian Arth-ris Research Society—one of the most active groups in the country—the Arthritis Cen-tre Fund spokesmen said only $60,000 more remains to be raised to meet the cost of the building. They assure the B.C. Division of C.A.R.S.—which has emptied its treas-ury getting the project started—that Kelowna will contrib-ute a "reasonable share" of the costs of the centre. In charge of the fund raising here is R. H. Hedley, Okana-gan Investments, 252 Bernard Ave.

AFRICA REVIEWSekou Toure Stands Alone With Marxist Nationalism

CONAKRY, Guinea (AP) — Nearly three years ago, Kwame N'k'r'u'm a h. was swept from power in Ghana. Last month a military junta toppled Modibo Keita in Mali. Now Sekou Toure of Guinea stands as the sole survivor among black African leaders espousing the road of Marxist socialism for their countries.

There were parallels as well as differences between the regime here and that in Mali, whose capital city Bamako is 750 miles north.

Both Toure and Keita followed the socialist line. In declara-tions of economic independency, both withdrew their currency. France's backing and the res-trictions which went with it.

Mali returned last April but in Guinea, the day of withdrawal—March 1, 1960—is a holiday.

Canada Sells A 'Birthright'

OTTAWA (CP) — A Uni-versity of Alberta law professor today expressed concern that Canada may be "selling her birthright" on oil leases in northern territories.

Dr. A. R. Thompson, address-ing the Commons committee on northern affairs, said Canada allows "excessively long per-mits, with royalty rates too long entrenched."

Although incentive benefits might be satisfactory for the present, "what wears well now might be a serious misfit in the future—and that future can change so fast."

Dr. Thompson criticized regu-lations in the North below 65 degrees latitude, where he said companies can control fields for 30 years without discovery or relinquishment of any acreage, and in the far North, where the limit is 35 years.

Under regulations allowing the reissue of a lease for 21 years from date of a strike, a company receiving a permit this year could be guaranteed unchanging royalty rates until 2019 or 2024.

Dr. Thompson said oil and gas regulations allowed the holder of an oil permit to "blanket a discovery with leases," cutting out competition that would as-sure fair current prices.

He compared the federal regu-lations unfavorably with those in Alberta, where a company could maintain control of oilely 50 per cent of the area under its original permit when it took out a lease.

Federal regulations allowed the company to maintain all of the original area in exchange for additional royalty payments. Alberta regulations allowed for re-negotiation of royalty rates every 10 years.

Dr. Thompson called federal regulations and incentives "the more generous than in many other parts of the world."

He realized that extra incen-tives are necessary for develop-ment in the North—but ques-tioned "whether the gap was justified" between incentives of-fered in the provinces and those offered in the territories.

Both presidents have built close ties with the Chinese and the Soviet bloc.

The economies of both coun-tries have diverged since indepen-dence, forcing their populations to turn to outside help even to feed themselves.

Mali is arid and landlocked with virtually no resources. Guinea possesses at least a third of the world's bauxite re-serves, gold, diamonds, iron

Rebel Priest In Hiding

FLORENCE, Italy (AP) — Don Enzo Mazzi, rebel priest and hero to the Florentine poor, was in hiding today after being dis-mis-sed from his parish Thursday. But his parishioners held the key to the church and were setting up a revolution promotion centre next door.

Two other Florentine priests expected expulsion from their duties in the bitter dispute be-tween Don Mazzi and his work-ing-class flock on one side and Ermenegildo Cardinal Florit, the archbishop of Florence, on the other.

The priests were Don Sergio Caccioli, a pastor in one of Flo-rence's poorest districts and a close associate of Don Mazzi's, and Don Paolo Gromi, 28, Don Mazzi's assistant.

Don Mazzi was hidden in a private house while his parish-ioners continued to control the church of Mary of the Graces in the Isolotto district.

They s c h e d u l e d meetings through Saturday night to de-cide what stand to take against the archbishop. In rooms adjoining the church, parishioners were making posters and burn-ing out mimeographed bulletins.

MAKES FLORIT BRISTLE Don Mazzi had been his pas-tor 14 years. For the last 10 years he and his associates had been writing a children's catechism that made Cardinal Florit bristle and sent shock waves in the Vatican.

The just-published catechism depicts Christ as a revolution-ary leading the poor against the privileged and wealthy. The cardinal consigned the catechism and forbade his priests to use it.

Don Mazzi said the cardinal told him: "Resign or I'll fire you." The priest made no move to resign, and Thursday his dis-missal was announced.

Pupils in two elementary schools walked out of classes in protest. They had their teach-ers' approval.

Thousands of Don Mazzi's parishioners, including many crimples, marched in silence across the Arno and massed outside the cardinal's residence waving placards demanding that he restore Don Mazzi to them.

SKIDS OFF RUNWAY MONTREAL (CP) — No one was injured when a London-bound BOAC VC-10 jetliner skid-ded off an icy runway into a snowbank at Montreal Interna-tional Airport Friday. On Board were 99 passengers and a crew of 19. The four-engined airplane was undamaged.

SEKOU TOURE sole survivor ore, hydroelectric capacity three times the present produc-tion of South Africa.

Toure has been more success-ful in balancing West against East in extracting $250,000,000 in aid from the United States, West Germany, Russia and China.

Toure also has developed Afri-ca's most efficient political party, Parti Democratique du Guinee. It reaches into virtually every home among the 3,600,000 Guineans simply because it con-trols much of the food distribu-tion.

No one celebrates a marriage, names a baby or even holds a wake without permission from the party.

FOREIGN DEBT $210,000,000 Guinea has a foreign debt es-timated at $210,000,000. It ser-vices the debt from a meagre $11,000,000 in foreign exchange earned annually, mostly from exports of bauxite.

Guinea's own franc sells for four times the legal rate on Conakry's black market. Gui-neans on the street beg foreigners for neckties, sun glasses, king-size cigarettes and hand-kerchiefs—items which cannot be brought into the country in normal com-m-e-r-c-e because Guinea lacks foreign exchange.

The cheap money has caused prices to skyrocket in a land where domestic servants are well-paid at $60 a month, and college-educated teachers earn $200 a month. On the free mar-ket, potatoes are 60 cents a pound, onions $1.20, a pair of cotton trousers $44.

Toure, 46, insists his people will continue to sacrifice to build the nation.

More than most African lead-ers, Toure has managed to sub-duce tribal differences and build a nationality-based on pride in Guinea's going it alone.

Health Care Still On Top Of Schedule At Regina Meet

REGINA (CP) — Health care still is a main issue in Saskatchewan as the Liberal party prepares for its 57th annual convention, six years after the province launched North America's first government-run compulsory prepaid medical care insurance plan.

Premier Ross Thatcher's government has modified significantly operations of the plan introduced by the CCF, predecessor of the New Democratic Party. Liberals say the changes are aimed at keeping the plan alive, but the NDP says the modifications may be lethal.

One of the resolutions to be debated at the three-day convention which began Thursday asks for a yearly ceiling on a family's liability for utilization fees, charges imposed this year on use of hospital facilities and doctor visits.

Saskatchewan citizens pay a head tax of $72 annually per family towards medical care funds, or $36 for a single person. The utilization fees, which went into effect April 15, are $2.50 a day for the first 30 days that a person is in hospital and $1.50 a day for the next 60 days. No fee is charged after 90 consecutive days.

There is a $1.50 fee for house calls and $2 for visits to a doctor's office. The fees were introduced by the Liberals to cut down on what they called abuse of health services. The NDP refers to the fees as "deterrent fees" and sometimes labels them "a tax on the sick."

The Liberals' difficulties with the fees will be less from ended if the convention opts for the family ceiling concept. The federal government insists that to qualify for the federal-provincial cost-sharing, provincial medical care insurance plans must treat all citizens on a strictly equal basis.

Saskatchewan representatives did not make any apparent progress earlier when they sought out the federal government on possible exemption of cancer patients from the fees. Ottawa indicated that such a move might jeopardize the universality of the plan.

Another resolution calls for an independent, impartial committee to study the feasibility of a prepaid drug insurance plan. Mr. Thatcher has promised a plebiscite on such a plan will be introduced some time during the government's term of office that began Oct. 11, 1967.

Other resolutions ask the government to encourage treatment of minor illnesses in nursing homes, to reduce pressure on hospital facilities. Saskatchewan, Manitoba and Alberta this summer established a joint committee on health costs, to seek ways of keeping such costs from climbing—in Mr. Thatcher's phrase—"right through the roof."

But health will not be the only issue facing the Liberals, who hold 34 seats in the 59-seat legislature. The New Democratic opposition, led by Woodrow Lloyd, has 24 seats and one seat is vacant.

They will be tackling resolutions calling for establishment of a fund for capital loans to municipalities at realistic interest rates, revision of tax assessment procedures and more equitable tax relationship between urban and rural areas.

Three federal cabinet ministers—Jean Manland, minister of forestry and rural development, H. A. Olson, minister of agriculture, and Otto Lang, minister without portfolio—will address the convention.

Glue-Sniffing Death Probed

OTTAWA (CP) — An inquest into the death of a 10-year-old boy killed by sniffing glue was told that a seven-year-old youngster was forced to inhale glue fumes.

The inquest was into the death of Raymond Champagne found dead in an east end park last Oct. 10.

Mrs. Claudette Chisholm said her son Greg, 7, came home about two weeks before the Champagne youngster died with glue around his eyes and in his hair.

The Chisholm youngster told the inquest Raymond Champagne had forced him to sniff fumes from glue. He said he had become dizzy and ran home.

Raymond Champagne was found dead behind a park bench with a plastic bag covering his face. Police said they found what appeared to be dried up glue in the bag and in the boy's mouth.

Six or seven empty tubes of the type of glue used in model building were found near the body.
